Smith, Companion Hold News Parley In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) —Two American soldiers released by the Viet Cong said today they had been well treated during their two years of captivity.

Spec. 5 Claude E. McClure, 25, of Chattanooga, Tenn., said his captors cared for his wounds, shared their food with him and allowed him mail from his family and Red Cross packages.

"Had it been the Saigon government, I would have been tortured," said McClure.

SGT. GEORGE E. Smith of Chester, W. Va., said he believes his liberation was "the direct result of protests in America against U. S. involvement in the Viet Nam war."

The Viet Cong, in announcing their release Saturday, said they were being freed to show good will toward Americans opposing the war.

The two soldiers appeared at a news conference arranged by the Cambodian information minister. They had crossed the border after their release and were brought here to the Cambodian capital Monday.

"I have known both sides," said Smith, and the war in Viet Nam is of no interest to the United States.

SMITH, asked about the morale of the South Vietnamese government troops, said government officers frequently ran away whenever there was a fight. Smith said he was returning home "so Americans can see the light about the war in Viet Nam."

Both soldiers said they expected "harrassment" when they got home.

McClure said the Viet Cong did not try to indoctrinate its prisoners. He said his captors gave him books to read and paper for his letters. He said he didn't do much work in the camp.

Smith, 27, said he was told Nov. 21 that he was being freed. "I couldn't believe my ears," he said.

"The Saigon government is not the government of the people," said Smith. "I have seen South Vietnamese villagers who were ready to help the Viet Cong."

The two Americans said they chose to be returned to Cambodia rather than South Viet Nam because "Cambodia is at peace, contrary to South Viet Nam."

ALSO AT the news conference was Le Van Diep, identified as a special emissary of the Viet Cong. He told the two Americans: "Your return to the United States is the prelude to the departure of American troops from South Viet Nam."

Reading a communique which he said was from the Viet Cong leadership, he said the decision to free the two men was "in conformity with the Viet Cong policy of clemency and response to the friendly sentiments of the American people against the South Viet Nam war."

He added that "the good discipline of the two prisoners" played a part in the decision to free them.

There was no indication when the two Americans would leave Cambodia.

U.S. Moves To Beef Up Naval Force

Reds Hit South Viet Units Near Where McNamara Visited

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong returned to the attack today after a brief lull in heavy ground fighting during Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's latest inspection of the war zone.

Another major buildup of U.S. and South Vietnamese forces seemed certain in the wake of McNamara's visit. He left for Guam Monday night with a warning that Communist North Viet Nam had clearly decided to escalate the conflict. He forecast a long war.

Within hours of McNamara's departure, the 85,000-ton nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise left the Philippines to join units of the U.S. 7th Fleet operating against the Communists in Viet Nam. The "Big E," the world's largest carrier, was escorted on her first combat mission by the guided-missile frigate Bainbridge, also nucear-powered.

In South Viet Nam's central highlands, a guerrilla battalion apparently overwhelmed 200 government militiamen 15 miles east of An Khe, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division. McNamara visited the American encampment Monday.

The fight took place along the Mang River, about 200 miles northeast of Saigon. A government company went to the rescue of the beleaguered militia-

Pact Urged Between Red Bloc, NATO

Agreement Offered By International Cooperation Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Soviet-led Warsaw Treaty Organization was proposed today to the White House Conference on International Cooperation.

The conference's Committee on Arms Control and Disarmament, which made the suggestion in a report, also said that in the long run Communist China will have to be included in any system for international security and disarmament. But it added that "the long run can be very long."

The committee reported to the conference, which was called by President Johnson in support of the United Nations International Cooperation Year. The report was submitted for discussion along with other conference papers concerned with keeping the peace.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told the conference's space panel Monday the United States vigorously supports the U.N. resolution against placing weapons in orbit around the earth and has set an example by reporting to the international organization every object it has sent into orbit. Other nations, he suggested, might follow this example and also might press for general observance of the anti-weapons resolution.

The Disarmament Committee is headed by Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, a former presidential science adviser and present dean at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The committee said an agreement between the rival military alliances in Europe would recognize "that the situation in central Europe — including the situation in Berlin — can be

British Put Units Near Rhodesians

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson was expected to announce today that Britain is sending a token military force to Rhodesia's northern frontier.

Qualified sources said Wilson had agreed to a request from President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia for help in protecting the Kariba hydroelectric dam on the Zambia-Rhodesia frontier. Last Friday, saboteurs blew up a tower on the power line which carries electricity from the dam to Zambia's copper belt.

Military correspondents of British newspapers reported the prime minister would tell the House of Commons that a force already was on the way. It was believed to consist of Royal Air Force reconnaissance planes and technicians.

Qualified sources said Wilson had agreed to send the force on condition that it would stay in Zambian territory, that it would remain under British control and that no other foreign troops would be allowed into Zambia while the British are there.

Informed sources in Lusaka, the Zambian capital, said RAF personnel began arriving there late last week.

Political sources said Conservative leader Edward Heath and his inner circle decided Monday night to support Wilson's dispatch of troops so long as it was emphasized that the move held no direct threat to Rhodesia.

Heath apparently accepted the argument spread by the Laborites that if Britain did not send troops, Kaunda would seek them from other nations who have offered aid. These are understood to include Ghana, the United Arab Republic and Communist China.

Zambia has an army of only 1,200 men and it normally is occupied with internal security duties.

Some right-wing Conservative backbenchers feared that once British troops were in the area, Wilson woud come under pressure to use them against the rebel white minority government of Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Men Will Dye For Jobs— Not For Lady Next Door

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A man will dye, dye, dye for his job, but not for the woman next door.

Sales of men's hair coloring products have boomed 73.3 per cent this year, the biggest jump in the men's toiletries field. Barbers report a big business in touching up the gray.

One manufacturer, L'Oreal of Paris, has developed a line of 12 shades of coloring. Clairol, which made hair coloring for women socially acceptable, is entering the field, advertising: "Does he or doesn't he? Hair coloring so natural only his barber can tell for sure."

Dr. W.G. Eliasberg, a psychiatrist and author, says older men color their hair because they are afraid of losing their jobs to younger men, not because they want to enhance their sex appeal.

"Some men make sex their careers. On the whole, these are the real exceptions," he said. "The man at age 40 to 45 who hasn't sown his wild oats is an exception, and an industry can't be built on him."

What the hair coloring industry is built on, he said, is the man who is concerned about his career.

"It is a matter of economics," Eliasberg said. "You must not look 40 if you still want to be promoted. So if you have the bad luck to lose your hair or have it turn gray, you cover up."

Eliasberg, who has a full shock of white hair, said in an interview that prejudices against wigs, wiglets, hair spray and coloring have fallen.

"There is a trend for both sexes toward rejuvenation, to appear younger than you have the misfortune of being," Eliasberg said. "You have to appear youthful. Everyone who is in that boat does it.

"All these people live under the same pressures of rejuvenation. They are 40 to 45, the economic pressures are increasing. Their central motive is to keep young, and if not to be young, to appear young.

Bundy Seen Set To Leave White House

Top Staffer Offered President Position In Ford Foundation

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The expected departure of McGeorge Bundy as President Johnson's top aide on foreign policy would complete a major revamping of the White House staff.

Bundy, the brilliant but often abrasive presidential assistant for national security affairs, has been offered the presidency of the Ford Foundation at about $75,000 a year—more than double his $28,500 White House salary.

The best guessing here and in Washington is that the former Harvard University dean, brought to the White House in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy, will take the job.

Bundy's job as a presidential assistant has been downgraded under Johnson. And it now seems apparent that the assignment as secretary of state, which he apparently would relish, is firmly in the grasp of Dean Rusk.

Should Bundy resign — and there has been no evidence that Johnson is resisting such a move — it would mark the end of a subtle, two-year-long reorganization of the White House staff along Johnsonian lines.

Kennedy, much like Dwight D. Eisenhower before him, thought of staff aides as specialists. Johnson, more the free-wheeler, likes to tag particular aides to do particular chores

Goal Neared In Fund Drive

$109,600 Reported In Contributions

Contributions have mounted to $109,600 in the local United Fund campaign, close to the $115,000 goal, Chairman Richard Martin has announced.

The latest contributions include $2,000 from Smith & Phillips and $1,285 from the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co.

Carl Werner, campaign secretary, says reports still are due from 35 organizations in the mercantile "A Division," from 10 in the Industrial Division and from 120 in the small business category.

Werner said the drive is certain to go over the top with these reports.

"It is hoped," he added, "that the above groups will turn in their contributions as quickly as possible so that the campaign may be officially closed."

Police Press Search For 2 In Collisions

2 Parked Autos Hit In Hit-Skip Case On Pennsylvania Ave.

East Liverpool police today pressed a search for motorists who fled the scene of two East End traffic mishaps Monday afternoon and night.

An unidentified car continued west along Pennsylvania Ave. about 11:18 p. m. after striking two parked cars on Pennsylvania Ave. near Dewey Ave., officers said.

The vehicle first struck a parked 1955 coupe owned by Henrietta Weatherspoon of 617 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, then continued approximately 150 feet and hit a parked 1960 two-door sedan owned by Charles E. Utt, of 1909 Harvey Ave., officers said.

The offending car did not stop and there were no witnesses, but Patrolman Howard Frontz and J. W. Buckley reconstructed a partial description of the auto from physical evidence found at the scene. They said the hit-skip car is white, at least on its lower part, and it is a Chrysler product, most likely an Imperial.

The crash damaged the entire left rear of the Weatherspoon auto and the rear of the Utt auto, police said. Police said the Wellsville auto was carrying license plates not issued to the

McElroy Plans Race For Attorney-General

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mark McElroy, Cuyahoga County prosecutor and former Ohio attorney general, says he plans to be a candidate for attorney general next year.

In a letter to friends and former associates in the attorney general's office, he said he planned to make his official announcement within the next few days.

Bargaining Plan Kept

Steel Union Stays On Big-Ten Basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big Steelworkers Union, ready to quit industry-wide bargaining after the recent contract settlement "suggested" by President Johnson, has changed its mind.

The decision to stick with the long tradition of bargaining in concert with the Big 10 steel companies apparently settles a sharp internal division within the million-member AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union.

Union President I. W. Abel, who unseated longtime Steelworkers chief David J. McDonald in the midst of the recent steel crisis, made it clear the union will continue its 10-year system of negotiating with the major companies that represent 80 per cent of the nation's steel production.

"The record shows that our industry-wide program really paid off," Abel said Monday in a talk here.

But the newly elected Steelworkers' leadership sang a different tune when it returned to Pittsburgh from the White House in September to persuade a fired-up membership to accept the settlement, reached after President Johnson had laid specific "suggestions" before deadlocked negotiators and kept them virtually locked up until they reached agreement.

There was fear at the time that the powerful Wage Policy Committee of the union might reject the White House settlement.

At a secret policy meeting, the top union leaders at the time, Steelworkers Vice President Joseph Malony, with Abel also present, said: "Next time we'll take them (the companies) on one at a time and beat hell out of them."

The Teamsters Union, which has the power to halt most of the nation's trucking, has for many years used to good effect the "falling-domino" theory of negotiations, in which one big company at a time is picked off without creating a national crisis and government intervention.

But Abel, in tracing the history of steel bargaining, said that "I don't share this great concern" about crisis bargaining. Abel spoke to a collective bargaining conference being held here by the AFL-CIO Chemical Workers Union.

A Steelworkers spokesman confirmed it was Abel's first public reaffirmation of industry-wide steel negotiations.

Luck Holds Key To Good Gemini Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The experts will hand half the credit to Lady Luck if Gemini 7 and 6 can be launched in a brief enough time span to permit rendezvous in space.

"If we can get them both off the ground," however, said flight director Christopher Kraft, "the odds of achieving rendezvous are high."

Air Force Lt. Col. Jack Albert, launch director in charge of the Titan 2 booster rockets, said Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford have a 50-50 chance to soar into space in time to catch the orbiting Gemini 7 crew, Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr.

Borman and Lovell are to lift off at 2:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday on a marathon two-week flight. Schirra and Stafford are to blast off from the same launch complex, nine days later, on Dec. 13.

"Unquestionably, we're going to have to have a lot going for us" during those nine days, Kraft said.

Cause Sought In $300,000 Alliance Fire

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — A fire that broke out shortly before midnight Monday night destroyed three buildings in the heart of the downtown business section and threatened others before being contained early today.

Damage was estimated at more than $300,000.

Firemen said the fire destroyed the City Loan Co., Stiveson & Lloyd, an appliance store; the S. P. Brown Co., which sells drygoods and carpets, and the Fiegenschuk Jewelry Co. The Midland Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Co. sustained heavy smoke damage, they said.

Three fire companies, along with the Alliance Fire Department, brought the blaze under control at about 3 a.m. after fighting the wind-driven flames in freezing temperatures.

The fire was confined to half a city block in the 200-block of East Main Street, but power was cut off in a four or five-block area. The flames could be seen for several miles.

No one was reported injured.

Firemen believed the fire broke out in the appliance store.

But the newly elected Steelworkers' leadership sang a different tune when it returned to Pittsburgh from the White House in September to persuade a fired-up membership to accept the settlement, reached after President Johnson had laid specific "suggestions" before deadlocked negotiators and kept them virtually locked up until they reached agreement.

There was fear at the time that the powerful Wage Policy Committee of the union might reject the White House settlement.

At a secret policy meeting, the top union leaders at the time, Steelworkers Vice President Joseph Malony, with Abel also present, said: "Next time we'll take them (the companies) on one at a time and beat hell out of them."

The Teamsters Union, which has the power to halt most of the nation's trucking, has for many years used to good effect the "falling-domino" theory of negotiations, in which one big company at a time is picked off without creating a national crisis and government intervention.

But Abel, in tracing the history of steel bargaining, said that "I don't share this great concern" about crisis bargaining. Abel spoke to a collective bargaining conference being held here by the AFL-CIO Chemical Workers Union.

A Steelworkers spokesman confirmed it was Abel's first public reaffirmation of industry-wide steel negotiations.

Luck Holds Key To Good Gemini Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The experts will hand half the credit to Lady Luck if Gemini 7 and 6 can be launched in a brief enough time span to permit rendezvous in space.

"If we can get them both off the ground," however, said flight director Christopher Kraft, "the odds of achieving rendezvous are high."

Air Force Lt. Col. Jack Albert, launch director in charge of the Titan 2 booster rockets, said Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford have a 50-50 chance to soar into space in time to catch the orbiting Gemini 7 crew, Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr.

Borman and Lovell are to lift off at 2:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday on a marathon two-week flight. Schirra and Stafford are to blast off from the same launch complex, nine days later, on Dec. 13.

"Unquestionably, we're going to have to have a lot going for us" during those nine days, Kraft said.

Cause Sought In $300,000 Alliance Fire

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — A fire that broke out shortly before midnight Monday night destroyed three buildings in the heart of the downtown business section and threatened others before being contained early today.

Damage was estimated at more than $300,000.

Firemen said the fire destroyed the City Loan Co., Stiveson & Lloyd, an appliance store; the S. P. Brown Co., which sells drygoods and carpets, and the Fiegenschuk Jewelry Co. The Midland Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Co. sustained heavy smoke damage, they said.

Three fire companies, along with the Alliance Fire Department, brought the blaze under control at about 3 a.m. after fighting the wind-driven flames in freezing temperatures.

The fire was confined to half a city block in the 200-block of East Main Street, but power was cut off in a four or five-block area. The flames could be seen for several miles.

No one was reported injured. Firemen believed the fire broke out in the appliance store.

Air War Lacks Success

Viet Cong Continue To Transport Troops, Supplies

EDITOR'S NOTE—A lot of bombs have fallen on North Viet Nam since the United States began raiding selected targets in the Communist country. Has it deterred Hanoi's infiltration of the South. How does it weigh in the scale of the Viet Nam war? An AP reporter presents a comprehensive balance sheet in the following article.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the basis of Pentagon-stated objectives, the U.S. air war against North Viet Nam is far from a success after nearly 10 months.

Based on the same announced goals, there are some elements of failure.

These views are the consensus in discussions with a wide range of qualified sources within and outside the U.S. government, and are supported in a study of other information available from the government.

A main objective of the bombings, which began last Feb. 7, was to cut down the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers and supplies into South Viet Nam.

The evidence, chiefly the governments own figures, shows that despite heavy battle losses Communist forces in South Viet Nam are stronger in numbers than ever before. And U.S. officials believe the enemy has the capability of moving up to four more divisions into South Viet Nam over the next six months.

ANOTHER MAJOR announced goal of the bombing was to prod the North Vietnamese into halting their support of the Red aggresssion in the South. Hanois chiefs seem more defiant than ever.

Indications point to intensified U.S. bombing in the North around the clock.

This probably will mean a marked rise in the number of jet combat sorties, now averaging about 600 a week.

It also undoubtedly will mean more U.S. air losses. So far, 149 U.S. planes have been downed.

The bombing targets are likely to remain essentially the same — mostly bridges, roads, railroads and ferries along the lines of communication leading through North Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara almost certainly would dispute any conclusion that the limited air war has been a failure.

Authorities reflecting his views contend that if it were not for the bombings, infiltration of men and arms would have been far greater.

Critics in the armed services and in Congress do not complain that hammering at communications lines obviously is not doing the job.

WHAT THEY WANT is a wider ranging assault to knock out North Viet Nam's ability to sustain the aggression south of the 17th Parallel.

"To win a war, you have to destroy an enemy's will and his capacity to fight," said one military source. "We're not doing either in North Viet Nam."

Reports gleaned from diplomatic sources with contacts in Communist North Viet Nam are that the Communists can carry on with considerable hardship but no basic dislocation.

The U.S. fighter bombers are destroying much in the target area, these reports say, but the North Vietnamese are repairing their roads, patching up their railroads, fixing up damaged rolling stock, and either bypassing damaged bridges or getting them into usable shape.

For the present, U.S. Air Force and Navy jets are barred from chopping at North Viet Nams industry, the irrigation system so vital to her food supply, most of her power facilities, much of her petroleum supply.

Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital and seat of much of her industry, and Haiphong, chief port of entry for seaborne supplies from the Soviet Union are off limits.

U.S. reconnaissance has spotted a buildup of antiaircraft defenses around both complexes, which would raise the price to the United States if Americans strike there.

AMERICAN authorities are careful to stress that this country never has given any assurance that the industrial and port complexes would remain immune. But for now these officials believe any attacks on Hanoi and Haiphong would carry a high risk of triggering deeper involvement of Red China.

Officials have taken pains to underscore again and again that there is no desire to destroy North Viet Nams economy.

It is estimated that only about 10 per cent of North Viet Nam's power capacity has been knocked out. Also, only a small segment of North Viet Nam's petroleum stocks have been destroyed.

Military experts say big oil supplies are stockpiled in the Haiphong area.

There are those in the armed services who strongly favor mining the approaches to Haiphong and establishing a blockade, arguing that it would be much better to prevent Soviet-built missiles from arriving than to knock them out after they are in place.

An estimated 50 to 60 ships arrive in Haiphong in a given week, many believed loaded with war supplies.

WHAT HAS THE bombing accomplished? According to data available here, more than 50 bridges have been at least temporarily disabled. Some lead directly from Red China to Hanoi.

However, the policy of being satisfied with knocking out only one span of a bridge still is in effect.

U.S. authorities acknowledge that the North Vietnamese have been able to repair their bridges. As soon as the bridges are operative again, U.S. planes knock them out once more.

The railroad in North Viet Nam has been able to operate sporadically in sections.

Intelligence reports indicate that road traffic is at a standstill during the day and is getting that way at night with an increase in night raids.

But U.S. experts concede that a relatively primitive economy like North Viet Nam's is not nearly so dependent upon lines of communication as is a highly developed nation like the United States.

Thus, if trucks can't move down North Viet Nam's roads, the transport job can be handled by ox carts and even on the backs of men.

ANOTHER MAJOR target in the North has been ammunition depots. These are difficult targets to destroy, since the storage facilities are dug in. Still, about one-third of North Viet Nam's national ammunition capacity is estimated to have been destroyed.

Barracks also have felt U.S. bombs and rockets, but some military sources said this type of strike has perhaps been overdone. Most North Vietnamese military barracks are rather crudely constructed, with thatch roofing and may be easily replaced.

With all of this bombing, the latest figures released by the Defense Department a month ago showed that Communist strength in South Viet Nam had risen by about 40,000 or so in the previous three or four months to 240,000, including regulars, irregulars and political agents.

U.S. experts say that the rate of U.S. plane losses in North Viet Nam is below that of World War II and about on a par with Korea.

Although the Pentagon shies away from using ratio figures, on the ground that this would help the enemy judge the effectiveness of their defenses, it is known that the current loss ratio over North Viet Nam is about three planes per 1,000 sorties.

According to Air Force records, the rate of combat losses in World War II was nine per 1,000 combat sorties. In Korea, it stood at about three per 1,000 sorties.

North Vietnamese radar-guided antiaircraft guns and their gunners have won the respect of American fliers.

The surface-to-air missiles — SAM — have not been as much of a problem as had been anticipated. Radar-jamming techniques are believed to have foiled the tracking abilities of some of the SAMs. Eight American planes are credited to the missiles.

Most of the enemy antiaircraft weaponry is made up of 37mm and 57mm guns. Less than half are radar guided.

Air officers deny that North Viet Nam's defenses are catching up with the offense.

men, radioed it had taken moderate casualties, and then went off the air, U.S. spokesmen said. No American troops took part.

About 200 guerrillas attacked a Vietnamese Special Forces camp and a nearby militia post 90 miles southwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border in Phong Dinh Province. The Communists fired recoilless rifles and mortars for almost five hours. U.S. spokesmen reported 15 Viet Cong dead and light government casualties, but no U.S. dead or wounded.

A few miles away the Communists released 24 captured government soldiers in what Saigon spokesman called a periodic move to undermine government morale. Vietnamese military commanders fear these releases may encourage their troops to surrender rather than fight.

However, in the bitter fighting northwest of Saigon on Saturday, the Viet Cong machinegunned a number of Vietnamese troops who tried to surrender.

The air war continued over the skies of North and South Viet Nam.

U.S. spokesmen said Air Force and Navy jets battered bridges, highways and suspected troop concentrations in the Communist North, while two air wings flew 399 attacks against suspected Viet Cong targets in the South. More than 200 structures, including fortifications, were destroyed within South Viet Nam, the spokesmen reported.

Giant tortoises on the arid Galapagos Islands store water from the scant rainfall in neck sacs. Shipwrecked mariners have been saved from death by tapping the unusual water supply.

Job Centers Scheduled In Federal Plan

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson approved today a one-stop plan for government job seekers which he said would make it easier to attract capable people.

When it is in full effect, interested citizens won't have to go from agency to agency to learn about federal job opportunities, but will be able to get all the information in one place.

Information centers will be set up in 55 major centers, acting for the entire federal government. They will replace 684 boards of examiners, each acting for only one department or agency. Some cities now have as many as 30 or 40 of these boards.

Officials said one-stop job information centers will be set up within a month in Boston; New York; Philadelphia; Atlanta, Ga.; Chicago; St Louis, Mo; Dallas, Tex.; Denver, Colo; San Fransisco, and Seattle Wash. All these cities have regional offices of the Civil Service Commission. Similar offices will be established later in other large cities.

Yes, in Ohio, electricity has remained one of the biggest bargains in the family budget!

How did it happen?

A large part of the answer is found in Ohio's historically favorable business climate. Over the years the electric utility companies have been able to raise the many millions of dollars needed to make additions and improvements to their facilities. Through improvements they have kept the price of electricity down. Your increased use of electricity has helped, too.

Not In The Blueprint

Another executive budget will go to Congress next January.

The country will face one of its infrequent moments of truth about the cost of affluence and the Great Society.

All preparations for discounting the shock will have been knocked askew by a cost item that wasn't in the blueprint for the Great Society.

When the Great Society's designers were calculating the cost of massive social programs like medicare and accelerated age for educational institutions and promising students, they did not take into account the cost of fighting a war on the other side of the earth.

If they gave any thought at all to the possibility of adding a shooting war to federal expenses, they must have hoped it could be met within a defense budget already accounting for half of all federal expenditures.

Surely, Secretary of Defense McNamara, the man who had been cutting defense spending to the bone even though it was still half of all federal spending, could sneak the cost of holding an enemy at bay in South Viet Nam into the more than $50 billion he already had at his command. They were counting on him even while bucking his cutbacks.

But it is not going to be that way. Secretary McNamara is fresh out of magic.

President Johnson has been given a prevue of the budget now being prepared and has issued the expected call for cutting everything to the bone. The disturbing factor is the soaring cost of the war in Viet Nam.

If it continues to soar—to "escalate" along with the war, itself—the federal budget will go far beyond the $100 billion that has been the Johnson administration's hoped-for leveling-off point.

The darkest misgivings of the most pessimistic gloomsters will be revived—misgivings about what must happen if new major expenses are added to an already expanded budget.

When the federal government makes a practice of spending to the hilt and a little beyond each year, there is no margin for emergency spending. Every unscheduled item must come out of deficit financing. Every dollar of deficit financing must come out of the hides of people living on fixed incomes and children yet unborn who will have to meet future interest charges on massive national debt.

President Johnson's early success with a doctrine of political consensus can be traced directly to his promise to practice prudence in spending and taxing.

Fulfillment of the promise has been spotty. With the soaring cost of an "escalting" war added to a federal budget already well over the $100 billion mark, promise will be so far ahead of practice the administration's image of prudence will be shattered.

First Order Of Business

The tumult and the shouting have died in New York City. The captains and kings of press agentry have departed.

The winner of the contest for mayor, John V. Lindsay, is working on a program to improve New York City government. His support came from voters who thought he offered the best hope for transforming New York from hopelessness.

National attention was riveted on him because of realization that if he could lead New York City out of the wilderness, this attractive man, who had run as an independent Republican, could show the Republican party how to create a new image in the nation's cities.

Since the now distant days of the New Deal, Democrats have had an edge on politial power in the cities. They have controlled the electoral votes of entire states through their leverage on cities like New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Detroit.

Their success was attributed to their mastery of mass voting. They appealed realistically to voters most favored by big-city Democratic bosses—the same kind who once made the power of Tammany Hall legendary in New York City.

Under these circumstances, the Democratic machines in the big cities would grow steadily more costly to tolerate, because they were reckless with the public purse. They aimed to spend as much and to save as little as possible; this was their trade secret.

Under their open-handed rule, the Democratic party never would win fame for efficient public administration. This is what had happened in New York. This was why in a city with a three-to-one ratio of Democratic registration, a non-Democratic candidate for mayor could win. People were fed up with a government that didn't govern yet spent their money.

John V. Lindsay promised to step up efficiency of government.

He promised to show how a big city can be administered prudently as well as compassionately.

He promised to quit letting things slide and come to grips with New York's problems.

If he could do it, the Republican party could make city administration its specialty. It could forego its agonizing quibble over how many GOP elephants could be balanced on the head of a pin and come to grips with a realistic problem.

It would have the Democratic party at a fixed disadvantage. If Democratic candidates for municipal offices ever promised to sit tight on taxpayers' money they would be as far out of action as an arthritic in a frug contest.

In Uniform Lengths

By Truman Twill

I can remember my father sawing kindling in the cellar on winter nights. He worked in a lumber yard and would bring home loads of scrap wood from the lumber mill — all kinds of shiny, aromatic pieces.

These he would saw into uniform lengths with an old-fashioned bucksaw, holding the pieces in place on a sawhorse with a V-shaped rack. Many years later I was to fall heir to the bucksaw.

It was a crude tool compared with the ultra-modern bow-saw I use for the same purpose. Its wooden frame was subject to loose joints and seasonal aberrations. The blade was not well-tempered and, of course, was rusty by the time the saw came into my hands.

I shall always remember the screech-scrunch of my father's preoccupation with the kindling supply. It never was clear to me why he worked so hard at it.

Anyone could see he was ahead of the game. All the space beneath the cellar stairway was jam-packed — and that was the reserve. The current supply was kept in another place. Furnace fires sometimes went out, of course, but not that often. Fireplace fires used lots of kindling — but we had no fireplace.

There was more to it than kindling per se. It was an obsession. I didn't understand it then, and I'm not sure I understand it now. But I'm getting closer.

We used to buy wood for the Twillery fireplaces. Also kindling. Until an oil furnace was installed, we needed an extra-large kindling supply.

Then something happened.

I bought a bow-saw — a chrome-plated frame with a stainless steel blade. With this easy-to-handle household appliance I have sawed enough kindling for my wife's second husband, if any, plus enough firewood to last the rest of this winter and most of next winter —and the screech-scrunch season isn't even under way yet.

The screech-scrunch season comes when a householder can think of nothing more interesting to do than whack up wood of assorted lengths into kindling of uniform size.

It is when the most worthwhile thing to do on a Sunday afternoon is saw up dead trees for firewood, a task so time-consuming no one can afford to do it for any reason but "fun."

It keeps getting clearer year by year about my father sawing wood.

He couldn't think of anything more interesting to do, and he didn't know what it was going to be like with, first, radio, then television to bore a man numb.

Before the winter's over, I may have sawed up the house into uniform lengths and stacked it in a neat pile, just in case anyone ever needs that much wood — all in uniform lengths, all racked in neat piles — screech-scrunch.

Colorful World Figures Lacking

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This is intermission time on the world stage.

For most of this century a succession of colorful men dominated the mind and imagination of the world. Most are dead or retired now. The rest of this century will have to manufacture new men to take their place.

There were loudmouths among those giants of the past, and actors, orators, fanatics, and true world leaders, whether they were loved or hated.

Of them all only two still have top billing: Red China's Mao Tze-tung, and French President Charles de Gaulle. A few others from the past are still in the show but have quited down from age or circumstance.

At 72 Mao has become a shadowy figure, hardly seen, more a legend than a man. He says little the world hears. He was never colorful. It is hard to know anymore what his real role is.

De GAULLE, ALWAYS the actor, is still colorful even if he says nothing and points his nose in the air. At 75 he seems certain of a new seven-year term as president. But his dominance is limited mostly to France and Western Europe.

President Johnson, a newcomer to the world scene, has concentrated on his domestic problems and staved pretty much off the international stage. So it would be straining to say he is a dominant world figure, capturing men's minds.

President John F. Kennedy was the opposite. He was a newcomer, too, but, while he was no smash-hit in getting Congress to do what he wanted, he plunged into the international act early.

The result: in the less than three years of his presidency he was a famous and generally admired figure around the world.

For example: Before he was six months in office he had visited De Gaulle, dined with the queen of England, had a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna, and then had a crisis over the Berlin wall.

Other figures from the past, although still in power, say few lines anymore: Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, and Indonesia's President Sukarno, very rambunctious until his home-grown Communists recently tried to take the play away from him.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK is still head man on Formosa but in his more than 35 years before the world audience he was never colorful, never said much.

Nothing shows the contrast between past and present more than the Khrushchev case. Bounced over a year ago, he is now in obscurity. Probably not one American in 1,000 could name his successors, much less spell their names.

Yet Khrushchev, one of history's greatest actor-loudmouths, was also one of the most fascinating figures of the century. In recent days Red China and the Soviet Union moved closer to a fatal split. They exchanged long invectives.

But the leaders said nothing in their own names. What they said sounded like a dialogue between pedantic philosophers.

Not one figure on the scene today, except perhaps for Mao and De Gaulle, is known to the world audience or entrances it like Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Harry S. Truman, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Eisenhower, Nehru, Gandhi.

New York Ponders

An Editorial Research Report

New York State's Joint Legislative Committee on Matrimonial and Family Law has begun three days of final hearings.

The committee was created in 1956, but up until June of this year was limited to procedural aspects of the state law. In a resolution adopted last summer the legislature gave the group power to study and recommend changes, citing "widespread fraud, collusion, and perjury in matrimonial actions and proceedings."

The fact hearings have not aroused a storm of controversy gives some reason to believe a change in the New York law is achievable, if by no means certain. Prof. Nelson Blake, a historian at Syracuse University, told the committee on Oct. 27 that "the elements that have wanted to oppose change, it seems to me, are not fighting it as obviously and vigorously as they have sometimes in the past."

"I was hoping you'd tell us not to be afraid," Assemblyman P. E. Sutton, a Democrat who represents a central Harlem district, replied. "But you are just telling us to be brave."

The New York divorce law is harshest in the nation. The U.S. Constitution was adopted in the same year as the New York law; it has been amended more than a score of times in 178 years, but the New York law remains unchanged.

The committee is now analyzing statements from nearly 100 experts who have presented religious, sociological, and legal lines of argument.

A Roman Catholic jurist, Supreme Court Justice William D. Lawless of Erie County, advocated additional grounds for divorce which may well be accepted by Catholic diocesan officials. "The issue," Judge Lawless said, "is whether to broaden our grounds for civil divorce to include mental cruelty, physical cruelty, and desertion. I believe we would reject mental cruelty but accept physical cruelty and desertion."

Proponents of liberalization are led by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. The lawyers let it be known that legislators who tried to block reform would meet with opposition at election time.

Whatever action the legislature takes, the draft bill the committee is preparing is sure to provide against easy or "quickie" divorce.

Odd Facts

Some rats seem to have an innate or inherited fear of the smell of cats. Other rats lack this fear but have inherited fear of the sight of snakes. Biologists speculate that similar innate fears may exist in human beings.

Greek Royal Guardsmen proudly wear bouffant skirts, tasseled garters and white tights. Some historians say the unique uniform began as a short tunic that ancient Greek and Roman soldiers wore under armor.

Dog's Rival

Is the barnyard goose man's second best friend?

Geese make faithful watchdogs, determined shepherds, efficient field hands and good companions. When geese have reached the end of their working days, they make the supreme sacrifice. They are delicious to eat.

Geese have been serving man as long as any other bird, the National Geographic Society says. The graylag goose, depicted an ancient Egyptian frescoes, is probably the oldest domestic bird. Chinese swan geese were tamed at least 2,000 years ago.

Selective breeding of the two species has produced the many varieties of domestic geese. In the process, the tamed geese have lost their ability to fly and surrendered stable family life. Wild geese are monogamous, but domestic ganders are veritable Casanovas.

A honking, hostile goose long has been recognized as a superior watchdog. In ancient Rome, the sacred geese of the Temple of Juno were credited with saving the city from marauding Gauls in 390 B.C. Enemy scouts sent into the city at night awakened the geese, which set up such a clamor that they woke the Roman defenders.

Today in Dumbarton, Scotland, a gaggle of 18 geese patrols the sheds storing thousands of barrels of aging whisky. At the sight of an intruder, presumably thirsty, the geese start cackling and guards come running.

Anyone Hear A Meow?

Princess Margaret is fair game for all the snipers who can draw a bead on her. The bead-drawing goes on in Britain all the time. She's used to it.

But the trade journal published in New York City that went out of its way to make snide remarks about her clothes raised a question of taste that had nothing to do with freedom of speech and press.

Its comments matched those of the most unmannerly Britons who have outdone themselves in times past in rudeness to Americans. Whatever was wrong with the clothes, from the trade journals view, hardly was important enough to justify such biting criticism as the statement that her mink coat was "moth-eaten, ratty."

This won't spark off an international incident. If the lady's feelings are hurt, it's too bad; she has only herself to blame.

She should have ordered all her clothes from New York. Otherwise, she made it inevitable that the English design would be criticized.

We thought she looked all right. We never saw a mink coat that looked like anything but money, especially on a princess.

Public Confidence

By David Lawrence

Business Gets The 'Jitters'

The most delicate factor that can favorably or unfavorably affect the American economy is public confidence. When faith in the impartiality of the government begins to decline or fears grow that an administration in power is fumbling with big issues, uncertainties arise and eventually hesitation ensues. This tends to break down confidence in the future of business.

David Lawrence

Today American businessmen are becoming disillusioned over the failure of the Johnson administration to play fair as between management and labor. Coercion by government is unpleasant but it might be borne with equanimity being imposed upon management.

The Department of Labor itself this week admitted, in effect, that the famous "guidelines" which were supposed to prevail with respect to wage increases had been exceeded in the union wage settlements of the first nine months of 1965. It also was revealed that the so-called "productivity" figures which are used to justify the wage increases had not attained the prescribed levels.

It isn't statistics alone which are bothering businessmen. They frankly are disturbed that the administration is openly ignoring its responsibility to hold down wage increases, particularly in the big industries. This perhaps is due to a political obligation felt by the administration, as Democratic party candidates have accepted huge campaign contributions which were collected through organized efforts of political committees set up by union leaders.

WHILE THE ADMINISTRATION proclaims itself to be impartial, it's giving concrete evidence again and again that it doesn't intend to crack down on labor as it has on business. The inevitable result has been to produce a feeling of nervousness. This is illustrated by an answer made by David Rockefeller, president of the Chase-Manhattan Bank of New York during ABC's television program "Issues and Answers". He said:

"I think that each time that the president uses the presidential authority to hold down prices when they would naturally have gone up, it gives business the jitters. And the more frequently he does it, the more jitters they will have."

The consequences of the President's palpable use of the club available to him through manipulation of the government's stockpiles has disturbed businessmen more than anything that has happened in long time. Businessmen nurture their grievances in private. They are not vocal in the sense that they make public speeches of condemnation as the politicians do when they disagree with a public policy. What the administration apparently doesn't understand, however, is that the damage which has been done in recent weeks will before long have a significant effect on the whole business situation.

THE SUBJECT is slowly creeping into politics. Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Republican, said last week that President Johnson "is charging down the road to economic absolutism," and added:

"Both free collective bargaining and price competition in the marketplace are dying in our major primary industries and are being replaced by the arbitrary exercise of presidential power.

"Government policies on wage negotiations now favor big union demands excessively. Industry takes it in the neck while government permits inflationary wage settlements, then climbs down industry's throat when compensatory price actions are taken."

In the long run, especially during an international crisis such as a war in Korea or a war in Viet Nam, confidence can best be maintained by laws establishing wage-and-price controls.

It's an unpleasant prospect, but specific statutes passed by Congress are better than the edicts of one-sided administration. It isn't yet realized how much damage has already been done in breaking down the confidence so essential to the planning and expansion of business and the maintenace of a fair return on capital invested.

The fact hearings have not aroused a storm of controversy gives some reason to believe a change in the New York law is achievable, if by no means certain. Prof. Nelson Blake, a historian at Syracuse University, told the committee on Oct. 27 that "the elements that have wanted to oppose change, it seems to me, are not fighting it as obviously and vigorously as they have sometimes in the past."

"I was hoping you'd tell us not to be afraid," Assemblyman P. E. Sutton, a Democrat who represents a central Harlem district, replied. "But you are just telling us to be brave."

The New York divorce law is harshest in the nation. The U.S. Constitution was adopted in the same year as the New York law; it has been amended more than a score of times in 178 years, but the New York law remains unchanged.

The committee is now analyzing statements from nearly 100 experts who have presented religious, sociological, and legal lines of argument.

A Roman Catholic jurist, Supreme Court Justice William D. Lawless of Erie County, advocated additional grounds for divorce which may well be accepted by Catholic diocesan officials. "The issue," Judge Lawless said, "is whether to broaden our grounds for civil divorce to include mental cruelty, physical cruelty, and desertion. I believe we would reject mental cruelty but accept physical cruelty and desertion."

Proponents of liberalization are led by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. The lawyers let it be known that legislators who tried to block reform would meet with opposition at election time.

Whatever action the legislature takes, the draft bill the committee is preparing is sure to provide against easy or "quickie" divorce.

Odd Facts

Some rats seem to have an innate or inherited fear of the smell of cats. Other rats lack this fear but have inherited fear of the sight of snakes. Biologists speculate that similar innate fears may exist in human beings.

Greek Royal Guardsmen proudly wear bouffant skirts, tasseled garters and white tights. Some historians say the unique uniform began as a short tunic that ancient Greek and Roman soldiers wore under armor.

Dog's Rival

Is the barnyard goose man's second best friend?

Geese make faithful watchdogs, determined shepherds, efficient field hands and good companions. When geese have reached the end of their working days, they make the supreme sacrifice. They are delicious to eat.

Geese have been serving man as long as any other bird, the National Geographic Society says. The graylag goose, depicted an ancient Egyptian frescoes, is probably the oldest domestic bird. Chinese swan geese were tamed at least 2,000 years ago.

Selective breeding of the two species has produced the many varieties of domestic geese. In the process, the tamed geese have lost their ability to fly and surrendered stable family life. Wild geese are monogamous, but domestic ganders are veritable Casanovas.

A honking, hostile goose long has been recognized as a superior watchdog. In ancient Rome, the sacred geese of the Temple of Juno were credited with saving the city from marauding Gauls in 390 B.C. Enemy scouts sent into the city at night awakened the geese, which set up such a clamor that they woke the Roman defenders.

Today in Dumbarton, Scotland, a gaggle of 18 geese patrols the sheds storing thousands of barrels of aging whisky. At the sight of an intruder, presumably thirsty, the geese start cackling and guards come running.

Anyone Hear A Meow?

Princess Margaret is fair game for all the snipers who can draw a bead on her. The bead-drawing goes on in Britain all the time. She's used to it.

But the trade journal published in New York City that went out of its way to make snide remarks about her clothes raised a question of taste that had nothing to do with freedom of speech and press.

Its comments matched those of the most unmannerly Britons who have outdone themselves in times past in rudeness to Americans. Whatever was wrong with the clothes, from the trade journals view, hardly was important enough to justify such biting criticism as the statement that her mink coat was "moth-eaten, ratty."

This won't spark off an international incident. If the lady's feelings are hurt, it's too bad; she has only herself to blame.

She should have ordered all her clothes from New York. Otherwise, she made it inevitable that the English design would be criticized.

We thought she looked all right. We never saw a mink coat that looked like anything but money, especially on a princess.

Public Confidence

By David Lawrence

Business Gets The 'Jitters'

The most delicate factor that can favorably or unfavorably affect the American economy is public confidence. When faith in the impartiality of the government begins to decline or fears grow that an administration in power is fumbling with big issues, uncertainties arise and eventually hesitation ensues. This tends to break down confidence in the future of business.

David Lawrence

Today American businessmen are becoming disillusioned over the failure of the Johnson administration to play fair as between management and labor. Coercion by government is unpleasant but it might be borne with equanimity being imposed upon management.

The Department of Labor itself this week admitted, in effect, that the famous "guidelines" which were supposed to prevail with respect to wage increases had been exceeded in the union wage settlements of the first nine months of 1965. It also was revealed that the so-called "productivity" figures which are used to justify the wage increases had not attained the prescribed levels.

It isn't statistics alone which are bothering businessmen. They frankly are disturbed that the administration is openly ignoring its responsibility to hold down wage increases, particularly in the big industries. This perhaps is due to a political obligation felt by the administration, as Democratic party candidates have accepted huge campaign contributions which were collected through organized efforts of political committees set up by union leaders.

WHILE THE ADMINISTRATION proclaims itself to be impartial, it's giving concrete evidence again and again that it doesn't intend to crack down on labor as it has on business. The inevitable result has been to produce a feeling of nervousness. This is illustrated by an answer made by David Rockefeller, president of the Chase-Manhattan Bank of New York during ABC's television program "Issues and Answers". He said:

"I think that each time that the president uses the presidential authority to hold down prices when they would naturally have gone up, it gives business the jitters. And the more frequently he does it, the more jitters they will have."

The consequences of the President's palpable use of the club available to him through manipulation of the government's stockpiles has disturbed businessmen more than anything that has happened in long time. Businessmen nurture their grievances in private. They are not vocal in the sense that they make public speeches of condemnation as the politicians do when they disagree with a public policy. What the administration apparently doesn't understand, however, is that the damage which has been done in recent weeks will before long have a significant effect on the whole business situation.

THE SUBJECT is slowly creeping into politics. Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Republican, said last week that President Johnson "is charging down the road to economic absolutism," and added:

"Both free collective bargaining and price competition in the marketplace are dying in our major primary industries and are being replaced by the arbitrary exercise of presidential power.

"Government policies on wage negotiations now favor big union demands excessively. Industry takes it in the neck while government permits inflationary wage settlements, then climbs down industry's throat when compensatory price actions are taken."

In the long run, especially during an international crisis such as a war in Korea or a war in Viet Nam, confidence can best be maintained by laws establishing wage-and-price controls.

It's an unpleasant prospect, but specific statutes passed by Congress are better than the edicts of one-sided administration. It isn't yet realized how much damage has already been done in breaking down the confidence so essential to the planning and expansion of business and the maintenace of a fair return on capital invested.

Rio Conference Ends

Latin Meeting Sets Vital Inter-American Actions

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The conference of 19 American republics ends today after laying the groundwork for a sweeping overhaul of the inter-American system.

Chief U.S. delegate W. Averell Harriman said the meeting was "of historical significance." He said its most significant action was a proposal to incorporate into the charter of the Organization of American States the social and economic principles of the Alliance for Progress.

The conference early today approved by acclamation an "Economic and Social Act of Rio de Janeiro" containing a series of proposed amendments to the OAS charter. It is a companion to political recommendations approved Sunday.

Both will be submitted to another conference in Buenos Aires next July for incorporation into the OAS charter.

The act states that "it is essential to incorporate into the economic and social field of the inter-American system, as judicially binding, principles of mutual security, solidarity, cooperation and assistance."

The act provides a blueprint for a great society for Latin America.

It calls for more equitable distribution and better use of land, better cities, stable prices and an end to inflation, fair prices and access to markets for exporters, reduction in barriers to trade, and economic integration of the hemisphere with a Latin-American common market as the goal.

For the first time the more-developed nations of the hemisphere will have a binding obligation to aid their less-advanced neighbors.

The act also calls on all OAS members to refrain from carrying out any economic policy likely to affect another member adversely.

The act urges joint action to beat down barriers against Latin-American products abroad.

The political proposals approved Sunday are designed to strengthen the OAS machinery. They include annual inter-American meetings and creation of political, economic and social, and educational and cultural councils for the organization.

India Views Border Actions As Peking 'Trouble-Making'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist Chinese troops are probing south all along India's Himalayan frontier. Some Indian blood is being spilled.

Peking is flooding New Delhi with protest notes charging India with provocations and warlike activity.

Why this Chinese war of nerves? Two theories are popular in government circles:

—The Chinese, frustrated by a lack of success in Africa and Southeast Asia, are hardening their stance from India to Korea so as to exploit every opportunity to cause trouble, especially for the United States.

—The Chinese intend to give moral support to Pakistan in its conflict with India and at the same time create "irritations" and conflicting claims that could be propaganda preparation for renewed hostilities against India.

New Dehli doesn't expect a major Chinese attack soon, however.

One of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's top Chinese experts points out that the winter snows have closed the mountain passes leading south from Chinese-held Tibet to the Indian plains.

Neither do Indian experts expect a major Chinese intervention in the Viet Nam war or a trial of strength elsewhere against American armed might.

The Chinese for the moment seem willing to let the Vietnamese take the punishment inherent in tangling with the Americans, these experts say.

No such inhibitions are evident among the Chinese troops on the Indian front. They push across the border with impunity.

One Indian expert on China said Peking's current campaign seems aimed at destroying the last vestiges of restrictions left over from the 1962 border war.

After that bloodletting, China unilaterlly announced demilitarized zones had been established along its frontier with India.

"Lines of control" were set up. The Chinese now have violated their own ground rules and obviously no longer consider them valid.

This, the Indians fear, may be groundwork for a new, serious attack — perhaps after the passes are clear of snow next spring.

Five Are Treated At City Hospital

A city woman injured in a fall was admitted to City Hospital, where four other persons were treated Monday.

Mrs. Gertrude Grimm of the Cummings Nursing Home was in "guarded" condition today with a possible fractured shoulder suffered in a fall yesterday afternoon.

Leslie Ann Higgins, daughter of John Higgins of Smith St., Glenmoor, was cut on the foot by a drinking glass.

Gary Burrows, son of Allen Burrows of 1492 Mick Rd., was examined for possible injuries of the right forearm after he was kicked while playing soccer in gym class.

Billy Ash, son of Billy Ash of 119 Azalea Ave., suffered a contusion below the eye while wrestling in school.

Driver Pays $25 Penalty On Speeding

A district motorist fined $25 and costs on a speeding charge was among four penalized for traffic violations today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

The fine was meted out to Howard H. Mitchell of Apples Corners after he pleaded guilty to a charge of spedeing 65 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on Pennsylvania Ave. He was cited at 4:20 this morning by Patrolman J. W. Buckley, police said.

In entering the plea, Mitchell told the judge he would admit violating the speed limit, but did not think he was traveling 65 miles an hour.

The judge also imposed a fine of $25 and costs on Thomas Lawrence of 1279 Sunnyside Ave. after convicting him of a reckless driving charge in connection with a traffic mishap Nov. 10 on Park Way. Lawrence, cited by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes, previously had pleaded not guilty.

Police alleged that a pickup truck driven by Lawrence struck a parked vehicle and then nosed into a gully.

Sally Ann Winters of 556 Florida Ave., Chester, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of failure to stop within the assured clear distance. She was cited Nov. 22 on Pennsylvania Ave. following a collision.

Donald B. Ice, 19, of 228½ Ravine St. was ordered to pay the court costs on a charge of driving an auto without an operator's license. He was cited Oct. 31. The court had continued the case to allow the youth to take the examination for the permit. The penalty was assessed after he procured a new license in court this morning.

Hearings are scheduled Monday at 9 a. m. for two motorists cited last night on charges of speeding 80 miles an hour in 50-mile zones.

They are Harry L. Pinkerton of 1123 White St., Wellsville, arrested at 6:30 on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd., and Kenneth W. Heim of General Delivery, Chester, cited at 8:20 on Route 30. Both charges were filed by the State Highway Patrol.

Highway Patrol Lists Accidents

A 1965 convertible was damaged in a minor accident Monday at 1:20 p. m. on County Rd. 430, a mile east of Route 170, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

The mishap involved the convertible driven by Gary Stewart Merriman, 24, of the Sprucevale Rd. and a bakery truck operated by James Andrew Oesch, 25, of New Springfield R. D. 1.

Both were headed east. Oesch missed a turn and halted in the roadway and Merriman halted behind him. Oesch then backed into the front of the convertible, officers said. He was cited for improper backing.

Joseph Petty, 16, of Winona Rd., Hanoverton R.D. 1, escaped injury when he demolished his 1956 model car on Route 644, 10 miles north of Salineville Monday at 8:30 p. m.

Officers said he lost control on an icy stretch. The car skidded and rolled into a ditch.

A tractor - trailer rig operated by Leo Verghies, 34, of Pittsburgh and a panel truck operated by George Mustric, 52, of Beaver Falls were involved in a collision at 1:25 p. m. yesterday on Route 17, a half-mile west of Route 7.

Officers said the truck was demolished. Mustric attempted to make a left turn and was sturck by Verghies, who had started to pass, the patrol said. Verghies was cited for improper passing.

Tax Hike Due In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — A 1966 city budget of $71.3 million, calling for increases in real estate, building and personal property taxes and higher water rates, was submitted Monday to Council by Mayor Joseph Barr.

Mayor Barr urged Council to raise the real estate tax one mill and the building tax a half mill, and personal property tax two mills plus a 20 per cent increase in water rates.

He said the increases are necessary to balance the budget which is $5.4 million higher than this year's.

In his message to Council, the Mayor recommended a 5 per cent pay increase for city workers, salary boosts for himself and Councilmen, added financial benefits for policemen and firemen, a 4-hour cut in the work week of laborers now working 44 hours or more with no decrease in pay.

He cited the economic paradox of the city having to take such action after a prosperous year, but said the existing sources of revenue to not sufficiently reflect the economic activity to enable the city to meet its obligations.

"City after city across the nation shares our dilemma," he said.

Clothing Session Set For 4-H'ers

LISBON — "Let's Be Fashionable in '66" is the theme for a 4-H clothing training meeting to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in St. George's parish hall.

Both 4-H advisers and members with clothing projects are invited to attend.

Ideas will be offered for planning 1966 projects, with selection of pattern, fabric and accessories emphasized. Several 4-H'ers will be modeling outfits to help show what makes the "well - dressed 4-H girl."

There were 570 girls with clothing projects in Columbiana County in 1965, Miss Ann Overturf, county extension agent in home economics, said.

Death Penalty Sought For Editor In Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — The government announced today it will seek the death penalty for newspaper editor Mustafa Amin who is charged with passing information harmful to the United Arab Republic to a foreign power.

The country was not identified in the indictment announced today, but Amin, a former editor of the Cairo newspaper Akhbar Elyom, was arrested July 21 with U.S. Embassy official Bruce Taylor Odell. Odell was accused of being a Central Intelligence agent.

Man Escapes Flaming Van In Collision

A Rochester man was listed in fair condition at St. John Emergency Center in Wexford, Pa., this morning after a spectacular accident on Route 19 Monday afternoon.

Kenneth E. Leichliter, 42, of Deer Lane Ext., Rochester R.D. 1, a driver for Betsy Ross Baking, Inc., of Chester, received back, neck and leg injuries when a van he was driving overturned and caught fire at 3:45.

Leichliter was traveling north on Route 19 in Wexford when a car he was following stopped for a school bus in the southbound lane. In an attempt to avoid a collision, Leichliter hit his brakes, skidded sideways and turned over.

The front of the truck caught fire, but Leichliter escaped by crawling through the windshield, which had been knocked out on impact.

Chief Richard Baer of the Pine Township Police Department said "the truck blocked both lanes of northbound traffic and the fire was so intense that we also had to close the southbound lane. All traffic had to be detoured for about a half-hour until the Wexford Fire Department put out the blaze."

"The 1959 Walk-in Van was a total loss and about $200 worth of bake goods were destroyed," company officials said.

Service Held For Marland

CHARLESTON (AP) — The ashes of William Casey Marland will be scattered on a knoll at Dutch Ridge northeast of here Wednesday — on a spot the former governor called his "spiritual home."

Funeral services for the state's 24th governor, who died of cancer last Friday, were held Monday in Barrington, Ill.

His widow, Mrs. Valerie Marland, said one of his last requests was that his ashes be spread at his farm near Pinch.

The ceremony is to be private.

Marland's life was described as "one of distinction and disappointment" by the Rev. Donald T. Olson, who officiated at the service at Barrington Methodist Church.

At the time of his election in 1952, Marland was the youngest man ever to become governor of West Virginia. After he left office in 1957, he made two unsuccessful attempts to gain a U.S. Senate seat on the Democratic ticket.

Last spring a newsman discovered him driving a taxi in Chicago. Marland, in widely publicized remarks, said he had taken the job as a rehabilitation effort to combat alcoholism.

He was hired recently as executive secretary to James F. Edwards, a West Virginia and Illinois businessman who owns Waterford Park horse race track in Chester.

The Rev. Mr. Olson eulogized Marland as a man who had the courage to face his challenges, despite taking the wrong turn in a road that held a bright future.

The fine was meted out to Howard H. Mitchell of Apples Corners after he pleaded guilty to a charge of spedeing 65 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on Pennsylvania Ave. He was cited at 4:20 this morning by Patrolman J. W. Buckley, police said.

In entering the plea, Mitchell told the judge he would admit violating the speed limit, but did not think he was traveling 65 miles an hour.

The judge also imposed a fine of $25 and costs on Thomas Lawrence of 1279 Sunnyside Ave. after convicting him of a reckless driving charge in connection with a traffic mishap Nov. 10 on Park Way. Lawrence, cited by Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes, previously had pleaded not guilty.

Police alleged that a pickup truck driven by Lawrence struck a parked vehicle and then nosed into a gully.

Sally Ann Winters of 556 Florida Ave., Chester, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of failure to stop within the assured clear distance. She was cited Nov. 22 on Pennsylvania Ave. following a collision.

Donald B. Ice, 19, of 228½ Ravine St. was ordered to pay the court costs on a charge of driving an auto without an operator's license. He was cited Oct. 31. The court had continued the case to allow the youth to take the examination for the permit. The penalty was assessed after he procured a new license in court this morning.

Hearings are scheduled Monday at 9 a. m. for two motorists cited last night on charges of speeding 80 miles an hour in 50-mile zones.

They are Harry L. Pinkerton of 1123 White St., Wellsville, arrested at 6:30 on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd., and Kenneth W. Heim of General Delivery, Chester, cited at 8:20 on Route 30. Both charges were filed by the State Highway Patrol.

Highway Patrol Lists Accidents

A 1965 convertible was damaged in a minor accident Monday at 1:20 p. m. on County Rd. 430, a mile east of Route 170, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

The mishap involved the convertible driven by Gary Stewart Merriman, 24, of the Sprucevale Rd. and a bakery truck operated by James Andrew Oesch, 25, of New Springfield R. D. 1.

Both were headed east. Oesch missed a turn and halted in the roadway and Merriman halted behind him. Oesch then backed into the front of the convertible, officers said. He was cited for improper backing.

Joseph Petty, 16, of Winona Rd., Hanoverton R.D. 1, escaped injury when he demolished his 1956 model car on Route 644, 10 miles north of Salineville Monday at 8:30 p. m.

Officers said he lost control on an icy stretch. The car skidded and rolled into a ditch.

A tractor - trailer rig operated by Leo Verghies, 34, of Pittsburgh and a panel truck operated by George Mustric, 52, of Beaver Falls were involved in a collision at 1:25 p. m. yesterday on Route 17, a half-mile west of Route 7.

Officers said the truck was demolished. Mustric attempted to make a left turn and was sturck by Verghies, who had started to pass, the patrol said. Verghies was cited for improper passing.

Tax Hike Due In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — A 1966 city budget of $71.3 million, calling for increases in real estate, building and personal property taxes and higher water rates, was submitted Monday to Council by Mayor Joseph Barr.

Mayor Barr urged Council to raise the real estate tax one mill and the building tax a half mill, and personal property tax two mills plus a 20 per cent increase in water rates.

He said the increases are necessary to balance the budget which is $5.4 million higher than this year's.

In his message to Council, the Mayor recommended a 5 per cent pay increase for city workers, salary boosts for himself and Councilmen, added financial benefits for policemen and firemen, a 4-hour cut in the work week of laborers now working 44 hours or more with no decrease in pay.

He cited the economic paradox of the city having to take such action after a prosperous year, but said the existing sources of revenue to not sufficiently reflect the economic activity to enable the city to meet its obligations.

"City after city across the nation shares our dilemma," he said.

Man Escapes Flaming Van In Collision

A Rochester man was listed in fair condition at St. John Emergency Center in Wexford, Pa., this morning after a spectacular accident on Route 19 Monday afternoon.

Kenneth E. Leichliter, 42, of Deer Lane Ext., Rochester R.D. 1, a driver for Betsy Ross Baking, Inc., of Chester, received back, neck and leg injuries when a van he was driving overturned and caught fire at 3:45.

Leichliter was traveling north on Route 19 in Wexford when a car he was following stopped for a school bus in the southbound lane. In an attempt to avoid a collision, Leichliter hit his brakes, skidded sideways and turned over.

The front of the truck caught fire, but Leichliter escaped by crawling through the windshield, which had been knocked out on impact.

Chief Richard Baer of the Pine Township Police Department said "the truck blocked both lanes of northbound traffic and the fire was so intense that we also had to close the southbound lane. All traffic had to be detoured for about a half-hour until the Wexford Fire Department put out the blaze."

"The 1959 Walk-in Van was a total loss and about $200 worth of bake goods were destroyed," company officials said.

Service Held For Marland

CHARLESTON (AP) — The ashes of William Casey Marland will be scattered on a knoll at Dutch Ridge northeast of here Wednesday — on a spot the former governor called his "spiritual home."

Funeral services for the state's 24th governor, who died of cancer last Friday, were held Monday in Barrington, Ill.

His widow, Mrs. Valerie Marland, said one of his last requests was that his ashes be spread at his farm near Pinch.

The ceremony is to be private.

Marland's life was described as "one of distinction and disappointment" by the Rev. Donald T. Olson, who officiated at the service at Barrington Methodist Church.

At the time of his election in 1952, Marland was the youngest man ever to become governor of West Virginia. After he left office in 1957, he made two unsuccessful attempts to gain a U.S. Senate seat on the Democratic ticket.

Last spring a newsman discovered him driving a taxi in Chicago. Marland, in widely publicized remarks, said he had taken the job as a rehabilitation effort to combat alcoholism.

He was hired recently as executive secretary to James F. Edwards, a West Virginia and Illinois businessman who owns Waterford Park horse race track in Chester.

The Rev. Mr. Olson eulogized Marland as a man who had the courage to face his challenges, despite taking the wrong turn in a road that held a bright future.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Mother, The Car

Dear Ann: My husband has decided it is easier and cheaper to ride the bus to work than to take the car and pay parking. So, for the first time in 13 years of marriage, I have a car at my disposal. I was thrilled until I got my orders: The car can be used for one purpose only—to drive the children to and from school.

My husband says I may not use the car for errands, grocery marketing, visiting friends or family or doctor appointments. He says I should use a bus or taxi as in the past.

In all fairness, I must say he is a good husband and father I've never had to worry about excessive drinking, gambling or other women. It's just this one subject he's a little nuts on. Thanks for any help you can give me.—G.M.S.

-:-

Dear G.M.S.: Does your husband give any reason for his outrageous restrictions? Can he afford gasoline? Does he worry about using up the tires? Surely he isn't concerned about your ability to drive or he wouldn't allow you to chauffeur the children.

A man who would deny his wife the convenience of the family car for no good reason is a tyrant. And you can tell him I said so.

Another Meanie

Dear Ann: That letter signed "A Mother First, Last And Always" made me want to upchuck.

Why do some mothers get insulted if their kids are not included in every invitation? I don't blame a bride for saying "no children please" when asked if little tots can be brought along to a wedding dinner or reception. A bride's wedding day is supposed to be her happiest and she has a right to want it to be perfect.

Some children who are considered "perfect little ladies and gentlemen" by their parents are holy terrors. They laugh (or cry) in the church, they are first in line at the sweet table and they can give the most elegant affair the flavor of a lodge picnic.

Most people hate it when anyone criticizes their little darlings but I agree with you, Ann. Children do not belong every place and if their parents don't know it, someone should tell them.—ANOTHER MEANIE.

Dear Ann: I appreciate your support. Some mothers wrote to say I was wrong and that they would rather stay home than go where their children are not welcome. To them I say, "Fine. Stay home. Everyone will be happier."

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Problem Of Homework Discussed

We hear some parents complaining about the heavy load of homework their children have, especially at the high school level.

Dr. Garry Myers

Some prestigious writers amplify such complaints and they seem to find some dramatic evidence on their side. Several decades ago there was such great resistance by some parents to homework for their children that a number of leading educators advised great reduction or total abolition of homework and they devised researches of the kind that lent convincing popular support of their advice. Parents and students liked it.

Then, with the emergence of Sputnik I, there came a powerful wave of demands by many educators for higher standards of achievement in our public schools. As a result, makers of public school curricula began to push up standards and in self-defense many teachers piled on more homework, some excessively perhaps.

WITH STANDARDS raised by colleges, more and more teachers, especially in high school came to stake their reputations on the number of their students who later won entrance to college and succeeded there. Always there have been some teachers of this type, the number varying from school to school, and the total number seems to be increasing.

Even yet, however, we don't have many facts about the number of teachers who assign homework excessively and it's my guess that the number is not nearly so great as most parents suppose.

Before you conclude that your child has excessive homework, you need to take stock of the facts in his case:

Is he home practically every evening before a school day? Does he go at his work promptly and stick to it faithfully? Does he have good habits of home study? Does he know how to study?

Is he a good reader? Can he read his assignments effectively? How many hours an evening does he spend at concerted effort?

WHEN HE begins his homework, has he assembled his books, paper, pencil, notes on assignments, etc., or must he search for these things for half an hour or more? Must he telephone a classmate to know what the assignments are? During his study period, does he often find occasion to search for such items?

Does he often talk to a friend on the telephone or answer a call from him? Does he often get a snack or drink of water, go to the toilet, sharpen his pencil, pause to pick up and read comics or turn on a TV program?

If you add up all the time he spends on these diverting activities, they may total far more than the time he really studies.

Wishing him to have enough sleep, you may command him to go to bed at 9, 10 or 11 o'clock and deliver an angry monologue about the awful amount of homework he has. Maybe he hadn't really gotten down to work before that time!

Suppose you find that he has escaped such distractions and has worked hard and faithfully for a total of several hours. Suppose he obviously is unable by then to complete nearly all his assigned homework.

BEFORE YOU concluded that his homework is far too heavy, you should want to know how well he was prepared in earlier grades to do effectively the assignments he has. Is he able by native learning ability and preparation to succeed with the homework? Then you might rightly judge that the amount of homework was too large and difficult for him and you might well try to find out what help you could get for him. On the other hand, you might not have good reasons to conclude that all the school assignments in homework are too heavy.

If however, you are sure your child has excessive homework, you might wisely report this to the school, the principal, the school counselor or directly to his teacher. If, moreover, many other parents of the school whom you know well insist that their children also have too heavy homework, you might prevail on the program chairman of your PTA to devote a meeting to discussing this problem with the teachers, school counselor and principal.

AND IF out of the discussion comes the fact that one or two teachers are chiefly responsible for the excessive amount of homework, the administrators and supervisors might find concensus might be that the measure for correction. Or the amount of homework generally should be reduced.

My bulletins, "Helping Child With Lessons at Home," and "Parents and the Child's Homework," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Terror Becomes Issue

Peking-Soviet Split Puts Confusion In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — In Venezuela, long a prime target for communism in Latin America, the world Communist quarrel is generating confusion between the pro-Moscow wing and those who promote the Peking line of constant violence.

This was illustrated after pro-Communist guerrillas executed two peasant leaders associated with the government's Democratic Action party. The body of one was left with the mouth stuffed with Communist propaganda. Next to the other body was a list of 10 other government leaders "sentenced to death" by the guerrillas.

Maverick pro-Chinese Communists and their allies in the Revolutionary Leftist Movement argued that such executions are justified. But the Communist student leader, Juvencio Pulgar, voicing a pro-Moscow view, commented that "we are on the brink of becoming another Colombia, where violence no longer has anything to do with ideology." Colombia for years was plagued by violent banditry.

Even a founder of the movement is expressing second thoughts about unbridled terrorism. Domingo Alberto Rangel has been in jail since October 1963, when the government imprisoned extreme left congressmen after the killing of five guardsmen. Once an advocate of unremitting violence, Rangel recently wrote President Raul Leoni:

"It pains me to see Venezuela getting bloodied in a struggle where the vicious circle of revenge sterilizes opportunities and closes roads to conciliation."

This hints at a feeling among extreme leftists that the guerrilla movement, rather than paying dividends, has alienated many Venezuelans.

But Julio Escalona, president of the student federation, and said recently in an interview:

"Like the Vietnamese people, we are ready to go on with this war for 20 years. We will not stop until we kick the Yankees out."

Storm Drops Heavy Snows In Lake Area

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — Northeastern Ohio's first big snowstorm of the season—one that dropped 23 inches of snow in Conneaut and 16 inches in Ashtabula—hit Cleveland Monday night.

There were no reported deaths due to the storm and only minor traffic accidents, the highway patrol post at Ashtabula reported. Also, there were no notices of any school closings.

The forecast for today was cloudy and cold with snow flurries.

State and local crews worked all night to keep roads open and the patrol said all roads were "passable but slushy."

Sunday and Monday the storm hit from Painesville in Lake County, along Lake Erie and into Western Pennsylvania and New York.

Motorists who left Cleveland for Lake and Ashtabula counties during Monday's rush hours ran into heavy snows and traffic jams. Cars were backed up for a mile along slippery hills and curves on Ohio 306 in Kirtland Township in Lake County.

Several cars slid off Interstate 90 south of Ashtabula and had to be towed out. Passing lanes on the superhighway were snow-covered and speed was reduced to 40 miles per hour.

At Cleveland, up to six inches of snow was measured in the eastern suburbs and a three-inch covering was expected throughout the area by dawn today.

Deer Pays Busy Visit To Market In Pennsylvania

KANE, Pa. (AP) — A deer strayed into a shoe store and a supermarket on the first day of deer season Monday.

Jose Grandinetti, owner of the shoe store, said a doe opened the front door by itself and scampered into the rest room at the rear of the store. He said he chased the animal out the back door.

The animal next entered a nearby supermarket by means of an automatic electric-eye door.

After sprinting down an aisle amid a chorus of screams from female clerks, the deer jumped atop a dairy case, scattering and crushing cartons of milk, eggs and cottage cheese.

Three hunters shopping in the store finally subdued the doe, carried it out and released it. They described it as "tired, but apparently healthy."

An early automobile manufacturer of little faith equipped each horseless carrier with a whip socket on the grounds that a horse would be needed sooner or later to pull the vehicle home.

Informer Slated In 3 Klansmen's Conspiracy Case

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Top government attorneys — trying to prove conspiracy in the shooting of Viola Gregg Liuzzo — were expected to bring an FBI informant into court today.

Asst. Atty. Gen. John Doar of the Justice Department's civil rights division declined to say definitely, however, whether he would call Gary Thomas Rowe Jr.

He did indicate Rowe, a paid FBI informer for five years, would testify in the trial of three Ku Klux Klansmen.

The Klansmen went on trial Monday on charges of violating the civil rights of Mrs. Liuzzo, a white Detroit housewife, who was shot to death March 25.

Mrs. Liuzzo, mother of five, was shuttling demonstrators from Montgomery to Selma after the civil rights march last spring when she was killed.

The Klansmen on trial are Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 22, of Fairfield, Ala., and Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala. They are defended by former Mayor Art Hanes of Birmingham.

The trio was indicted on state murder charges in addition to the federal charge. Only Wilkins has been tried in state court, however, and he was acquitted by an all-white jury at nearby Hayneville.

Robert H. Edwards, Chester postmaster, offers the following hints to help mailers prepare for the hiliday season:

Edwards also asked that all mailers make an effort to address letters, cards and packages as clearly as possible and that they make every attempt to mail often, not waiting until the last minute to deposit all their gifts and greetings.

Council Votes Salary Boost At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — An ordinance authorizing $25 monthly salary increases for the superintendent and assistant superintendent of the water department was approved on final reading Monday night by Council.

The ordinance was passed on third reading, 4-1, with Councilwoman Kate Weaver again dissenting.

The increases will raise the superintendent's salary to $415 a month and the assistant superintendent to $375.

Council also received a letter from Police Chief Ray Keister asking a $100 monthly salary increase. Mayor Stanley Fitch suggested he and the safety committee meet to discuss a possible increase.

The chief at present receives $250 a month, plus a free apartment and all utilities.

Keister also asked Council to consider establishment of an auxiliary police department. Fitch asked that action be delayed until after the first of the year when Council reorganizes.

Councilman Gillis Earl suggested that the chief draw up a training program for auxiliary police and present it to Council for approval.

Council unanimously approved a motion by Earl to remove a police telephone from a utility pole outside City Hall and install a new phone in the radio room.

Unknown people have been listening in on police calls on the outside phone and also have taken the phone off the hook, interfering with calls, Council was told.

Fitch read a letter from Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, listing what must be done to make the village dump meet specifications.

A copy of the letter will be sent to Mesmer & Son Mining Co., which leased coal rights at the dump but has failed to restore the ground according to the agreement with the village, the mayor said.

Council authorized Pete Growall, street foreman, to continue a program to clean snow off the driveway and parking lot at the elementary school. The request was made by the Southern Local Board of Education.

It also approved moving a no parking sign at Knight's Restaurant on Main St. 20 feet to the east so that motorists will not block a driveway to the restaurant.

A revised appropriations ordinance transferring funds within departments also was approved.

A discussion was held on parking on Main St. interfering with snow removal in winter months.

Vatican Reports Revision Studied On Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican Ecumenical Council source said today that the assembly's birth control document has been revised to provide a basis for possible change in church teaching against contraception, while upholding current restrictions.

Birth control is discussed in the council's schema on modern world problems. The final text of this document was sent to the printer today after approval by Pope Paul and prior to a final round of voting in the council on Saturday.

The birth control report came as the council returned to work after a 10-day recess and came to a final vote on its missionary schema.

Indonesia Bares Red Coup Efforts

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia's defense minister, Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, says documents found at the Communist party's central committee show that the party not only masterminded but "actually planned and executed" the abortive Oct. 1 coup.

The Communists had originally planned to exploit any "imperialist initiated war" but later "it appeared that they had advanced the hour of betrayal," Nasution said Monday.

Speaking at a meeting of top Socialist party officials, the general said the Communists had decided to move "because according to their evaluation the health of President Sukarno was serious."

Their coup failed because of "the inflexibility of relationships between their leaders and their followers," he added.

Minshall Hopes Viet Trip Will Clarify War

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio congressman says his coming trip to Viet Nam may help clarify "confusing and contradictory statements" he attributes to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the State Department and the Pentagon.

Rep. William E. Minshall, Cleveland Republican, said he hopes McNamara's report that "we have stopped losing the war" is "more accurate than those made following his earlier trips to Viet Nam."

Minshall, who advocates intensification of the U. S. effort in South Viet Nam, is going there as a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

without consulting organizational charts.

Instead of viewing the office of the president as a rather formal piece of machinery, Johnson gradually has personalized it into his own kind of machine. As one observer phrased it, "he runs the presidency like a teamster drives horses."

Thus Bill D. Moyers, current press secretary, has been chief of staff for preparing legislation and, wearing still another hat, has assumed many of the administrative functions once handled by Walter Jenkins, who resigned at President Johnson's request in October 1964 after a morals scrape with the law.

From Bundy's own viewpoint things are much different than under Kennedy when he ran a "little State Department" in the White House basement.

Kennedy, distrusting the State Department bureaucracy, used Bundy's shop as a buffer — and as a source of viewpoints that, he felt, might not otherwise come to his attention.

Johnson has displayed no such distrust of the Cabinet departments. Indeed, he has expressed a preference for dealing directly with top Cabinet officers, feeling each should be the paramount expert in his assigned field.

"We've got a good chance of doing it," said Kraft. "There are three factors involved: How well the spacecraft 7 operates, How well we do with the checkout of the Gemini 6 space and launch vehicle, and the weather.

"If you run into an area where you've got to do extra testing, then you might have a problem. We don't want to launch Gemini 6 unless we're absolutely convinced we've done everything humanly possible to have everything right."

He said the Gemini 6 launch could be delayed up to 12 or 13 days after Gemini 7 blasts off, if Gemini 7 is functioning properly.

The committee also argued that the United States need not wait for better relations with mainland China before seeking agreements with the Russians on such things as reducing strategic forces or freezing nuclear stocks.

For years to come, the report said, such agreements could be 'safely implemented while the Chinese continue their efforts to develop their own nuclear force."

But the committee said the United States should try to open bilateral talks with China on arms control, find out the conditions under which China might qualify for and accept the responsibility of U.N. membership, and support efforts to bring the big Communist country into a disarmament conference.

The original dimensions of the Washington Monument were changed as a result of research by George Marsh, a United States minister to Italy. A true obelisk, he reported, would have a height about 10 times its base width, hence the monument's final proportions: 555 feet 5⅛ inches high to a base 55 feet 1½ inches square.

Military Services Set Friday For Pfc. Davis

Full military services will be held Friday afternoon for Pfc. Elwood W. (Skip) Davis, 26, of Salineville, who was killed in action Nov. 17 in Viet Nam while serving with the 1st Cavalry Division.

The rites will be conducted at 2 p. m. at Riley's Methodist Church west of Salineville. An Army squad will fire a salute and "Taps" will be sounded during burial at Mechanicstown Cemetery.

The services at the church will be conducted by the Rev. Allen Rose, pastor, and the Rev. Walter Furbee, a former pastor.

A detail from Ft. Hayes, Columbus, will conduct the military services. The soldiers will serve as pallbearers and members of the firing squad. A Ft. Hayes bugler will sound "Taps."

Pfc. Davis' body is scheduled to arrive Wednesday at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport, accompanied by a military escort.

Friends may call Thursday afternoon and night at the Kerr Funeral Home in Salineville, which is in charge of arrangements.

Pfc. Davis had been in Viet Nam for more than two months with the air mobile cavalry unit. He was serving with the 7th Cavalry Regiment, a unit of the 1st Cavalry, which was making an assault landing and moving into position when it was hit by an enemy force.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Davis of near West End, Salineville, and a brother of Mrs. Helen Williams of 1049 Monaca St.

Mrs. Williams received a telegram this morning from military authorities at Oakland, Calif., explaining that her brother's body is scheduled to arrive at the airport in Pittsburgh at 3:17 p. m. tomorrow.

without consulting organizational charts.

Instead of viewing the office of the president as a rather formal piece of machinery, Johnson gradually has personalized it into his own kind of machine. As one observer phrased it, "he runs the presidency like a teamster drives horses."

Thus Bill D. Moyers, current press secretary, has been chief of staff for preparing legislation and, wearing still another hat, has assumed many of the administrative functions once handled by Walter Jenkins, who resigned at President Johnson's request in October 1964 after a morals scrape with the law.

From Bundy's own viewpoint things are much different than under Kennedy when he ran a "little State Department" in the White House basement.

Kennedy, distrusting the State Department bureaucracy, used Bundy's shop as a buffer — and as a source of viewpoints that, he felt, might not otherwise come to his attention.

Johnson has displayed no such distrust of the Cabinet departments. Indeed, he has expressed a preference for dealing directly with top Cabinet officers, feeling each should be the paramount expert in his assigned field.

"We've got a good chance of doing it," said Kraft. "There are three factors involved: How well the spacecraft 7 operates, How well we do with the checkout of the Gemini 6 space and launch vehicle, and the weather.

"If you run into an area where you've got to do extra testing, then you might have a problem. We don't want to launch Gemini 6 unless we're absolutely convinced we've done everything humanly possible to have everything right."

He said the Gemini 6 launch could be delayed up to 12 or 13 days after Gemini 7 blasts off, if Gemini 7 is functioning properly.

Britain OK's Import Tax Extended To '67

LONDON (AP) — By a three-vote majority, the House of Commons authorized the Labor government Monday night to continue its 10 per cent surcharge on imports for another year.

Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan told the house the tax was still needed to help correct the unfavorable balance of trade.

The committee also argued that the United States need not wait for better relations with mainland China before seeking agreements with the Russians on such things as reducing strategic forces or freezing nuclear stocks.

For years to come, the report said, such agreements could be "safely implemented while the Chinese continue their efforts to develop their own nuclear force."

But the committee said the United States should try to open bilateral talks with China on arms control, find out the conditions under which China might qualify for and accept the red sponsibility of U.N. membership, and support efforts to bring the big Communist country into a disarmament conference.

The original dimensions of the Washington Monument were changed as a result of research by George Marsh, a United States minister to Italy. A true obelisk, he reported, would have a height about 10 times its base width, hence the monument's final proportions: 555 feet 5⅛ inches high to a base 55 feet 1½ inches square.

Physiological Approach Conducted

By WICK TEMPLE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Twelve years of sex research by two scientists at Washington University here may provide answers to what they call some of the most perplexing problems of the 20th century.

Dr. William H. Masters, a gynecologist, and his assistant, Virginia Johnson, will publish a book early next year on their findings in the heretofore unexplored field of human sexual response.

Just as Alfred C. Kinsey explored sex sociologically, Dr. Masters and Mrs. Johnson have explored it physiologically, in the laboratory, with 690 volunteers.

Some of the problems to which their research may find answers are the sex life of older persons, sexual inadequacy, and a safe sex life for cardiac and hypertension patients. They say they also have developed the first natural contraceptive that can be injected.

"The most important thing to come out of this research is knowledge that human sexual response can be directly investigated," Masters said.

Kinsey's research answered questions on the what and why of sex. The research of the Washington University team answers the "how" questions.

"Medicine has never before tackled the problem of what happens to the body during sexual experience," Masters said.

The research began in 1954 and was not publicized until this year, although the team published 25 articles in medical journals.

The work became known because of criticism. Dr. Leslie H. Farber of Washington, D.C., a psychoanalyst, criticized the St. Louis experiments in a commentary magazine, saying the researchers were "scientizing" sex and reaching possible false answers due to taking sex out of its total context in the laboratory atmosphere.

Masters calls this fair criticism, but contends that the body functions are the same, no matter what the context. Also, he says he does not intend to waste time defending himself against criticism.

"I am interested only in turning the tide of misinformation about sexuality," he said.

The volunteers, primarily married couples from a cross-section of the population of this metropolitan area, are carefully screened and interviewed. Half are rejected. Those accepted attend orientation sessions with Masters and Mrs. Johnson.

During the research, the team has treated frigidity and impotence, which Masters calls basic factors of divorce. Results of these treatments will not be announced until the scientists have completed five-year histories of a meaningful number of patients.

"Our first cases were right out of divorce courts," Masters said. "The first year we treated 27 pairs and we have treated several hundred since. We don't consider the treatment successful unless the results are lasting. On the basis of the fifth-year report, we have learned that 24 of the first 27 pairs considered the treatment successful."

The laboratory contains color movie cameras and considerable scientific apparatus, including electrocardiographs and brain-wave and biochemical equipment.

After observing 7,500 female sexual stimulations and 2,500 in men, the team believes it now can advise doctors what to tell cardiac patients about their sex lives. They can tell members of the growing "over-50" population that they can have normal sexual experience. They can advise pregnant women on sexual problems.

In their study of conception and contraception, the researchers said they discovered a sperm-killing vaginal substance in certain women. When injected, it kills sperm in 10 seconds, Masters said. Since this would be a natural contraceptive substance, Masters believes it might meet some religious objections.

Masters, 50 and bald, did pioneer work in sex steroid field before beginning research on sexual response. He is married and has two children. Mrs. Johnson, 40, studied psychology and sociology but had no advanced degree. She has two children. She was divorced a year before she joined the research group.

Masters started the first class in sexual response at Washington University Medical School five years ago. Since then, 25 other medical schools have started the course.

Washington University was the first medical school to allow sex research. Masters is an associate professor in obstetrics and gynecology.

Masters and Mrs. Johnson with the aid of dozens of scientists and St. Louis civic leaders, have found the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, a nonprofit agency financed by private donations and grants.

Perfection Unpopular

Human Failures Needed

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

One of the lucky things in this world is to have something obviously wrong with you.

It ordinarily helps a human being to get ahead if he has a recognizable but not too repulsive a defect.

This is one way in which people differ from chickens, and other perhaps lower forms of zoological life.

The pecking order in chickens requires complete similarity. If you put a spot of blood on a healthy chicken, the other chickens will surround and peck it to death, feeling it is a threat to the rest of the flock. They suspect it of being diseased.

The difference between the chicken flock and the human herd is simply this: Chickens unreasonably require perfection in their leaders and each other; people are suspicious of perfection claimed by their leaders or claimed by followers of such leaders. And to some extent they are aware of their own limitations.

We expect excellence always from our champions, and usually from each other. But we also expect failure and lack of performance from them sometimes, too.

One of the things we like about Babe Ruth is that, although he knocked 714 home runs, he also struck out a lot of times.

One of the things we like about George Washington is that, for all his granite force of character, he now and then let his temper get the better of him—and blew his stack, even as you and I.

One of the things we like about Abraham Lincoln is that, for all his political sagacity and eloquence in sustaining the American Union, he was homely and perhaps mildly henpecked. So was Socrates.

Every hero that has embedded himself deeply and lastingly in the affections of mankind has had a recognizable wart. This enables the rest of us to identify ourselves with him, and smile and say, "Well, after all, he was human, too."

It is hardly satisfactory to be sympathized with merely for one's warts. Every human heart also yearns to be remembered for something about it that is right. This takes a bit of demonstrating.

Yule Visit Home Due Youths In Job Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Job Corps expects about 80 per cent of its 16,000 members to spend this Christmas at home, with the government paying round-trip travel expenses.

A corps official said all corpsmen are entitled to transportation-paid home leave after six months service, and that this period will coincide with the holiday season for about half the membership.

Members with less than the required length of service have been offered advanced home leave over the holiday season, the official said, with the understanding that they will forego the time off after six months duty.

Crime Rises In Suburbs, FBI Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The incidence of violent crime remains on the rise this year but the FBI says the emphasis is away from the big cities.

The national increase during the first nine months of 1965 was 5 per cent compared with the same period last year. But the suburbs registered an 8 per cent rise, while communities with from 10,000 to 50,000 persons showed a 7 per cent gain.

In cities with more than one million population, the increase was only 2 per cent. Rural areas reported no change in the crime level.

Ohio Cities Compare Favorably In Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Several of Ohio's big cities stacked up rather favorably, and Cincinnati did especially well in comparison with the nationwide crime increase reported by the Federal Burau of Investigation today.

Still, most of the eight largest Ohio cities experienced increases in the seven major crime categories covered, comparing January - September 1965 with the comparable nine months of 1964.

Cincinnati, based on offenses known to police, reduced crime in six of the categories—but in the ultimate crime, homicide, had a slight rise from 27 to 29.

Akron was up in only three categories, Columbus in four, Cleveland, Dayton, Toledo and Canton in five, and Youngstown in six.

The crimes are classed as homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny $50 and over, and automobile theft.

On a national scale, the FBI says its crime index for the nine months showed a 5 per cent increase over the first nine months of 1964. Each category showed a rise, from 2 per cent in aggravated assault to 6 per cent in forcible rape.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

The Real 'Kidney' Producer Becomes Shy

"Initially I was very angry and upset, but then I realized the public didn't know anything about my kidney machine so this Kildare thing might be a good preview," says TV's top female producer, Lucy Jarvis.

Hal Humphrey

On NBC-TV last Sunday Miss Jarvis got a belated viewing for her documentary program, "Who Shall Live?" It concerned a life-saving machine for kidney disease victims who are dying at the rate of 100,000 a year, while fewer than 125 such afflicted patients are able to avail themselves of proper treatment.

-:-

MISS JARVIS refers to it as "my kidney machine" because on and off for two years she was working to bring to a TV audience what to her is a heart-rending story of injustice.

Shortly before "Who Shall Live?" was originally scheduled to air, she got word it had been postponed and that NBC's Dr. Kildare series was doing a seven-part story about "a life-giving kidney machine."

"I am quite sure," she says, still nettled, "that we inspired the Kildaire thing. In fact, I know their writer found out about our program, and it's very easy to do a series not based on fact and cast with attractive people and a machine. But I'll bet you the Kildaire cast isn't as good as ours!"

-:-

MISS JARVIS, whose TV visits to the Kremlin and Louvre netted industry awards galore, got her "cast" of kidney patients at Seattle's artificial kidney center in Swedish Hospital.

"I lost my director and writer before we were finished," Miss Jarvis reports. "They found it too appalling that treatment is being denied people suffering kidney disease because of cost."

Because of the cost (approximately $10,000 a patient per year) and the limited number of artificial kidney machines, it is necessary, as viewers of the Kildaire series saw, to have a committee of responsible citizens decide who should be treated. A spokesman for the King County committee in Seattle told Miss Jarvis, "We think of it as giving out life sentences."

-:-

IT WAS THIS arbitrary dealing in life and death which so disturbed Miss Jarvis' writer, Sidney Carroll.

"Who represents poets with kidney disease, and are they considered of sufficient benefit to society to be saved?" Carroll desperately wanted to know.

In presenting her documentary TV account of this life-and-death problem, Miss Jarvis hopes it will shake loose more financial grants for more machines and personnel trained to administer dialysis, which is the medical term for the treatment.

Actually there are more machines (perhaps 500) than are being used. The expense, plus the lack of personnel and reluctance of some doctors to tell patients about the treatment, is responsible for the disparity, Miss Jarvis says.

-:-

ALL OF THIS poignant realism will more than eclipse the frequently maudlin molasses oozing from some of the Kildaire episodes based on the subject, or so Miss Jarvis hopes. She was appalled, for example, at "that thing which looked like an octopus" in Kildaire's hospital ward.

"All of that apparatus is in another room concealed from the patients," exclaims the horrified lady documentarian.

While waiting for "Who Shall Live?" to go on the network, Miss Jarvis hopped over to South Viet Nam to accompany Mary Martin and the "Hello, Dolly" company and film a special which NBC will televise some time in February.

She declined to discuss any phase of the experience, including "Hello, Dolly" producer David Merrick's attack on Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for inviting only the stars of the show to an official party.

-:-

THE NEXT Lucy Jarvis project is a special TV visit to the William Randolph Hearsts castle at San Simeon, Calif., but here again she refuses to discuss it, except to say it will be tougher than doing the Kremlin.

Obviously Miss Jarvis has grown gun-shy of predatory competitors who swipe her ideas and get them on the air ahead of her and on her own network.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

The Real 'Kidney' Producer Becomes Shy

"Initially I was very angry and upset, but then I realized the public didn't know anything about my kidney machine so this Kildare thing might be a good preview," says TV's top female producer, Lucy Jarvis.

Hal Humphrey

On NBC-TV last Sunday Miss Jarvis got a belated viewing for her documentary program, "Who Shall Live?" It concerned a life-saving machine for kidney disease victims who are dying at the rate of 100,000 a year, while fewer than 125 such afflicted patients are able to avail themselves of proper treatment.

-:-

MISS JARVIS refers to it as "my kidney machine" because on and off for two years she was working to bring to a TV audience what to her is a heart-rending story of injustice.

Shortly before "Who Shall Live?" was originally scheduled to air, she got word it had been postponed and that NBC's Dr. Kildare series was doing a seven-part story about "a life-giving kidney machine."

"I am quite sure," she says, still nettled, "that we inspired the Kildare thing. In fact, I know their writer found out about our program, and it's very easy to do a series not based on fact and cast with attractive people and a machine. But I'll bet you the Kildare cast isn't as good as ours!"

-:-

MISS JARVIS, whose TV visits to the Kremlin and Louvre netted industry awards galore, got her "cast" of kidney patients at Seattle's artificial kidney center in Swedish Hospital.

"I lost my director and writer before we were finished," Miss Jarvis reports. "They found it too appalling that treatment is being denied people suffering kidney disease because of cost."

Because of the cost (approximately $10,000 a patient per year) and the limited number of artificial kidney machines, it is necessary, as viewers of the Kildaire series saw, to have a committee of responsible citizens decide who should be treated. A spokesman for the King County committee in Seattle told Miss Jarvis, "We think of it as giving out life sentences."

-:-

IT WAS THIS arbitrary dealing in life and death which so disturbed Miss Jarvis' writer, Sidney Carroll.

"Who represents poets with kidney disease, and are they considered of sufficient benefit to society to be saved?" Carroll desperately wanted to know.

In presenting her documentary TV account of this life-and-death problem, Miss Jarvis hopes it will shake loose more financial grants for more machines and personnel trained to administer dialysis, which is the medical term for the treatment.

Actually there are more machines (perhaps 500) than are being used. The expense, plus the lack of personnel and reluctance of some doctors to tell patients about the treatment, is responsible for the disparity, Miss Jarvis says.

-:-

ALL OF THIS poignant realism will more than eclipse the frequently maudlin molasses oozing from some of the Kildaire episodes based on the subject, or so Miss Jarvis hopes. She was appalled, for example, at "that thing which looked like an octopus" in Kildaire's hospital ward.

"All of that apparatus is in another room concealed from the patients," exclaims the horrified lady documentarian.

While waiting for "Who Shall Live?" to go on the network, Miss Jarvis hopped over to South Viet Nam to accompany Mary Martin and the "Hello, Dolly" company and film a special which NBC will televise some time in February.

She declined to discuss any phase of the experience, including "Hello, Dolly" producer David Merrick's attack on Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for inviting only the stars of the show to an official party.

-:-

THE NEXT Lucy Jarvis project is a special TV visit to the William Randolph Hearsts castle at San Simeon, Calif., but here again she refuses to discuss it, except to say it will be tougher than doing the Kremlin.

Obviously Miss Jarvis has grown gun-shy of predatory competitors who swipe her ideas and get them on the air ahead of her and on her own network.

Scott Says Steel Must Modernize For Competition

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Monday the steel industry must continue modernizing its equipment and the skills of its workers to compete against foreign steel producers.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the 1965 operating metallurgy conference and exposition, Scott said steel imports to this country are increasing. Foreign producers, he said, now have 10.1 per cent of the American market.

"Today, with modern equipment, they are making life very difficult for American steel companies, many of which have had to continue using older equipment," the senator said.

"In the years ahead," the senator added, "we can expect vast changes in the whole steelmaking process, and a new breed of steelworkers whose conversation will be filled with words such as 'data process,' and 'process control'."

Rhodes Praises Ohio School Plan

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is spending more for new and expanded facilities for higher education than any other state in the nation, Gov. James A. Rhodes said Monday.

The governor, speaking at groundbreaking ceremonies for the Belmont County branch of Ohio University, said the expenditure was made possible by bond issues passed by the voters in 1963 and 1965.

"You, the good and farsighted people of Ohio are responsible for this breakthrough in higher education," he said, adding Ohio has an estimated $320 million earmarked for higher education capital improvements . . . "more than any other state in the nation."

Rhodes' trip here marked the beginning of a busy week in which he plans to log a lot more mileage—including flying trips to New York—and three times to Cleveland.

The New York trip, another industry-hunting mission, comes Tuesday. Rhodes and four members of his cabinet will attend a luncheon in company with some 170 executives of New York-based firms.

Scott Says Steel Must Modernize For Competition

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Monday the steel industry must continue modernizing its equipment and the skills of its workers to compete against foreign steel producers.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the 1965 operating metallurgy conference and exposition, Scott said steel imports to this country are increasing. Foreign producers, he said, now have 10.1 per cent of the American market.

"Today, with modern equipment, they are making life very difficult for American steel companies, many of which have had to continue using older equipment," the senator said.

"In the years ahead," the senator added, "we can expect vast changes in the whole steelmaking process, and a new breed of steelworkers whose conversation will be filled with words such as 'data process,' and 'process control'."

Rhodes Praises Ohio School Plan

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is spending more for new and expanded facilities for higher education than any other state in the nation, Gov. James A. Rhodes said Monday.

The governor, speaking at groundbreaking ceremonies for the Belmont County branch of Ohio University, said the expenditure was made possible by bond issues passed by the voters in 1963 and 1965.

"You, the good and farsighted people of Ohio are responsible for this breakthrough in higher education," he said, adding Ohio has an estimated $320 million earmarked for higher education capital improvements . . . "more than any other state in the nation."

Rhodes' trip here marked the beginning of a busy week in which he plans to log a lot more mileage—including flying trips to New York—and three times to Cleveland.

The New York trip, another industry-hunting mission, comes Tuesday. Rhodes and four members of his cabinet will attend a luncheon in company with some 170 executives of New York-based firms.

Athens Plants Trees

ATHENS (AP) — Athens Mayor George Plytas plans to plant 100,000 more trees along the city's streets and squares. They will be eucalyptus, lemon and pine.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Mrs. Norma Jean Knight had an eight - pound alibi when she appeared in court to answer a traffic ticket.

Mrs. Knight, 18, was charged with sideswiping a car.

"The pains kept getting worse every block," she said. "I put on my lights, sped up and started honking the horn."

Then came the accident. She wasn't hurt, but was sped to a hospital where her eight - pound baby girl was born.

Chan Feels Potters 'A Year Away' From Cage Fortunes

Juniors, Sophomores Crowd ELHS Roster; Opener Saturday

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Coach Frank Chan, in his second season, feels that East Liverpool High School is about one year away from major success on the basketball court after sizing up the situation for the coming season.

"I think in one year we can have a sound basketball team and hope the younger players will gain a lot of experience this season."

He bases his opinion on the fact that from a group of 27 players, on the varsity and reserve squads, four are seniors, 10 are juniors and 13 sophomores.

—:—

THE JUNIORS and sophomores hold the key to the future success of the Potters and from the way Chan talks they will receive an opportunity to play this season. The four seniors mark the smallest number of fourth-year players in many seasons at East Liverpool.

"We will be facing one of our strongest schedules game-wise, with eight out of the first 13 away, which is not a good situation," Chan pointed out.

THE EARLY road games and the fact that the Potters got a late start at practice leave Chan with the feeling that his squad will be stronger in the second half of the season.

"All of our scrimmages have been away from home in order to prepare for the foreign courts, which come up frequently in the first half of the season," Chan explained.

Due to a local ruling at the high school, the Potters weren't permitted to start practice until two weeks later than most schools, having to wait until the football season ended here.

Chan pointed out that only two out of the first 11 candidates for the varsity team were members of the football squad.

—:—

"I COULD have taught 80 per cent of the team our offense and defense had we been permitted to start on Nov. 1, with the others learning the system when they reported after football season. Instead, I had to teach 100 per cent of the team at the same time. I feel the late start hurts the progress of the bigger boys," Chan said.

The Potters go into action Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium and Chan is pretty well set on a starting lineup, but indicated one or two positions could change before the opener.

The ex-Potter and W & J College star has two regulars returning from last year's team which finished on the winning end of an 11-7 record.

THE REGULARS are Vern Smith, a 6-2 junior, and Chuck Winters, a 6-foot senior. Both will start Saturday along with Jimmy Jones, a 6-2 senior.

In Smith, Chan thinks he has one of the better players to come out of the local high school in some time. "Smith is a good shooter and rebounder and we will be depending on him to help on the backboards this season. He drives well and has a good jump shot."

"Winters and Jones are just coming around into shape from football. Winters is a good shooter and I hope he will help on the boards. He has been driving very well in practice," Chan said.

THE POTTER coach is concerned with Jones' weight, and feels he has slowed up somewhat since last season. "He can be a big help on the boards this season, but will probably take some time to get in shape.

The other two positions find a battle between Chuck Lipscomb, a 5-10 senior, and Mike McFarlane, 5-8 senior. At present, Lipscomb has the edge, but has been slowed by the flu. McFarlane has been bothered with foot blisters.

Chan calls Lipscomb an aggressive defensive player and good passer who will be counted on as the team's playmaker.

McFarane is a good outside shot and with his speed should be a big help bringing the ball up the floor with his speed.

THE FIFTH position on the team finds two sophomores and a junior in the running.

The fifth starter could be Rex Campbell, 6-3 sophomore, Dick Witherow, 6-5 junior, or Mitchell Jones, 6-4 sophomore.

At the present, Chan is leaning towards Campbell as the other member of the starting lineup. "He is one of the better sophomores we have had and has good moves for a sophomore. He is quick and hustles and has impressed other coaches in scrimmage sessions," Chan pointed out.

"WITHEROW is the best jumper on the team, but may be a year away. We hope to develop him as the season progresses, but right now he needs game experience.

"Jones also needs the experience and I feel he could jump better. I think by the end of the year he will have gained that needed experience."

Two sophomores and a pair of juniors have been looking good to the Potter coaching staff. The sophomores are Mike McVay, 6-1, and Earl Diddle 5-8. Chan explained. "McVay needs to be quicker and lose some weight, but he could make a good guard. Diddle is quick and is a fair outside shot.

THE JUNIORS include Darryl Herring, 5-8, speedster who was a last-minute surprise on the football team this past season, and Phil Snyder, a 6-1 junior, rated a fair rebounder.

There is another reason Chan feels the Potters may be stronger in the second half of the season and around tournament time.

During the last five games of the season, Bruce Christian, a 6-3 sophomore, will become eligible after being forced to sit out about two-thirds of the season because of scholastic difficulties.

Chan rates Christian an outstanding sophomore prospect, who has everything that is needed. "He shoots good and is an aggressive boy." If he were eligible now, Christian would be considered for a starting berth, Chan said.

AFTER POINTING out some of the weaknesses of his team, Chan returned to the good points, which include "fair size, good hustle and good shooting." Also, he feels the Potters have the type of boys this year who will develop.

In summing up the season, Chan said, "I feel we will win our share."

The Potters open Saturday against Mayfield Heights of the Cleveland area. Mayfield will have had five games under its belt by the time they meet East Liverpool. Mayfield is a rangy outfit, with one starter listed at 6-8 and two others at 6-7.

Chan is being assisted again this season by Bob Dawson, ex-Potter backcourt star who went on to captain Bowling Green. Dawson guided the Potter jayvees to a winning campaign last season.

The 1965-66 schedule follows:

Dec. 4—Mayfield Hts., home
Dec. 10—Warren, away

POTTER COACH Frank Chan was in about the same situation as a year ago with only two regulars returning. The veterans of the current Potter squad shown going over some pre-game strategy with Chan are co-captain Chuck Winters, a senior, (left) and Vern Smith, a junior.

Irish Sink To No. 9 Spot

Michigan State Remains As No. 1 At Least Until Post-Season Games

By The Associated Press

Ten days ago Notre Dame battled Michigan State in what well could have been the game for the national college football championship. Today, a lot of fight having gone out of the Irish, Notre Dame finds itself barely a member of the Associated Press' Top Ten.

Because of a scoreless tie with Miami, Fla., the Irish tumbled from sixth place last week to ninth in this week's balloting.

The final poll will be taken following the post-season bowl games in which eight of the current Top Ten play.

Notre Dame was fourth before the game with No. 1 Michigan State Nov. 20 but fell to sixth following the 12-3 loss. This week the Irish received 79 points, just 22 ahead of 10th ranked Texas Tech.

Besides the Irish, the only other Top Ten team not headed for a bowl game is eighth-ranked Southern California.

Michigan State, which closed its regular season against Notre Dame, accumulated 35 of 46 first-place votes and a total of 446 points.

Arkansas drew 10 votes for first and 398 points while Nebraska, unbeaten like Michigan State and Arkansas, compiled 348 points.

The bowl game picture shows No. 1 Michigan State and No. 5 UCLA in the Rose Bowl, No. 2 Arkansas and unranked Louisiana State in the Cotton, No. 3 Nebraska and No. 4 Alabama in the Orange, No. 6 Missouri and unranked Florida in the Sugar, No. 7 Tennessee and Tulsa in the Bluebonnet and No. 10 Texas Tech and Georgia Tech in the Gator.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points on a 10-9-8, etc., basis:

1. Mich. State (35)	10 0 0	446
2. Arkansas (10)	10 0 0	398
3. Nebraska	10 0 0	348
4. Alabama (1)	8 1 1	286
5. UCLA	7 1 1	255
6. Missouri	7 2 1	186
7. Tennessee	6 1 2	109
8. Southern Calif.	7 2 1	91
9. Notre Dame	7 2 1	78
10. Texas Tech	8 2 0	56

Miami Coach Out Of Race For Pitt Job

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh has scratched Glenn (Bo) Schembechler, head football coach at Miami of Ohio, from candidacy for the same post at Pitt at Schembechler's own request.

Pitt Athletic Director Frank Carver said he had discussions with Schembechler about the vacancy opened when John Michelosen was relieved, but that there was no actual offer of the post. Carver said the coach of the Mid-American Conference champion Miami team told him Monday by telephone that he felt he should stay at the Oxford, Ohio, school.

Wins Turkey Shoot

Bob Mills of Highlandtown won the turkey shoot held Sunday on Route 39 for the benefit of the Highlandtown Volunteer Fire Department. John Dean Miller of Irondale was second and Sam Biacco of Wellsville was third. Another shoot will be held Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Ex-Niles Star Signs

Girl Again Files Charges Against Grid Star Brown

CLEVELAND (AP)—For the second time in six months, an 18-year-old girl has brought charges against Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown.

Miss Brenda Ayres filed a paternity suit against Brown Monday in juvenile court, claiming he is the father of a baby she expects early next year.

Last June, the girl charged Brown with assault and battery. He was acquitted by a jury on July 23 after a two-week trial. She claimed Brown slapped her around in his East Side motel room the night of June 19-20.

Russell Adrine, Miss Ayres' attorney, said the paternity suit is separate and not contingent upon the previous case. The petition asks the court to determine whether Brown is the father of the child Miss Ayres is expecting and whether he should pay for her prenatal care and the child's support.

Norman S. Minor, who defended Brown in the assault and battery trial, said "There is a sinister element involved in Miss Ayres' charges. It is probably part of the penalty Jim has to pay for his fame. The Ayreses are trying to capitalize on it."

Brown, father of three, was reported in New York Monday and could not be reached for comment.

Trading Gets Under Way

Linz For Amaro Features Early Baseball Meetings

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers and the Minnesota Twins, 1965 league champions, may be forced to stand pat during the annual baseball meetings.

There were no indications two days after the opening of the meetings that any of their challengers want to make any trades with the champions that might help them win successive pennants.

Trading already was under way between other clubs, however, with the New York Yankees swapping utilityman Phil Linz to the Philadelphia Phillies for shortstop Ruben Amaro, and the New York Mets buying Al Luplow, Cleveland outfielder, for a reported $30,000.

The Mets were expected to announce today they are sending outfielder Joe Christopher to the Boston Red Sox in exchange for shortstop Eddie Bressoud.

The Mets also sent pitcher Tom Parsons to the Houston Astros to complete a previous deal for catcher Jerry Grote, and the California Angels signed veteran pitcher Lew Burdette.

Burdette, longtime Milwaukee star, has been a free agent since posting a 3-5 record with the Chicago Cubs and the Phillies last summer.

"Lew feels he can still pitch," said Bill Rigney, manager of the Angels. "Being new to the American League might give him a new lease on life."

Neither the Dodgers, World Series champions, nor the Twins took any players in Monday's draft of minor league prospects, although 23 players were picked by other American and National League teams.

Many of those drafted were veterans trying to win another chance to make the big time in the major leagues, such as Gary Geiger, Moe Drabowsky, Ty Cline and Don Nottebart.

A few were youngsters, including 17-year-old Guillermo Montanez, a first baseman for Sarasota, Fla., who was drafted by the California Angels.

The swap of Linz for Amaro highlighted Monday's activities.

Linz, once fined $200 for playing a harmonica on a bus after a Yankee loss, was put up for trade by the Yankees because they wanted to provide insurance for shortstop Tony Kubek, troubled by injuries in recent years.

A few were youngsters, including 17-year-old Guillermo Montanez, a first baseman for Sarasota, Fla., who was drafted by the California Angels.

The swap of Linz for Amaro highlighted Monday's activities.

Linz, once fined $200 for playing a harmonica on a bus after a Yankee loss, was put up for trade by the Yankees because they wanted to provide insurance for shortstop Tony Kubek, troubled by injuries in recent years.

Irish Sink To No. 9 Spot

Michigan State Remains As No. 1 At Least Until Post-Season Games

By The Associated Press

Ten days ago Notre Dame battled Michigan State in what well could have been the game for the national college football championship. Today, a lot of fight having gone out of the Irish, Notre Dame finds itself barely a member of the Associated Press' Top Ten.

Because of a scoreless tie with Miami, Fla., the Irish tumbled from sixth place last week to ninth in this week's balloting.

The final poll will be taken following the post-season bowl games in which eight of the current Top Ten play.

Notre Dame was fourth before the game with No. 1 Michigan State Nov. 20 but fell to sixth following the 12-3 loss. This week the Irish received 79 points, just 22 ahead of 10th ranked Texas Tech.

Besides the Irish, the only other Top Ten team not headed for a bowl game is eighth-ranked Southern California.

Michigan State, which closed its regular season against Notre Dame, accumulated 35 of 46 first-place votes and a total of 446 points.

Arkansas drew 10 votes for first and 398 points while Nebraska, unbeaten like Michigan State and Arkansas, compiled 348 points.

The bowl game picture shows No. 1 Michigan State and No. 5 UCLA in the Rose Bowl, No. 2 Arkansas and unranked Louisiana State in the Cotton, No. 3 Nebraska and No. 4 Alabama in the Orange, No. 6 Missouri and unranked Florida in the Sugar, No. 7 Tennessee and Tulsa in the Bluebonnet and No. 10 Texas Tech and Georgia Tech in the Gator.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points on a 10-9-8, etc., basis:

1. Mich. State (35)	10 0 0	446
2. Arkansas (10)	10 0 0	398
3. Nebraska	10 0 0	348
4. Alabama (1)	8 1 1	286
5. UCLA	7 1 1	255
6. Missouri	7 2 1	186
7. Tennessee	6 1 2	109
8. Southern Calif.	7 2 1	91
9. Notre Dame	7 2 1	78
10. Texas Tech	8 2 0	56

Miami Coach Out Of Race For Pitt Job

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh has scratched Glenn (Bo) Schembechler, head football coach at Miami of Ohio, from candidacy for the same post at Pitt at Schembechler's own request.

Pitt Athletic Director Frank Carver said he had discussions with Schembechler about the vacancy opened when John Michelosen was relieved, but that there was no actual offer of the post. Carver said the coach of the Mid-American Conference champion Miami team told him Monday by telephone that he felt he should stay at the Oxford, Ohio, school.

Girl Again Files Charges Against Grid Star Brown

CLEVELAND (AP)—For the second time in six months, an 18-year-old girl has brought charges against Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown.

Miss Brenda Ayres filed a paternity suit against Brown Monday in juvenile court, claiming he is the father of a baby she expects early next year.

Last June, the girl charged Brown with assault and battery. He was acquitted by a jury on July 23 after a two-week trial. She claimed Brown slapped her around in his East Side motel room the night of June 19-20.

Russell Adrine, Miss Ayres' attorney, said the paternity suit is separate and not contingent upon the previous case. The petition asks the court to determine whether Brown is the father of the child Miss Ayres is expecting and whether he should pay for her prenatal care and the child's support.

Norman S. Minor, who defended Brown in the assault and battery trial, said "There is a sinister element involved in Miss Ayres' charges. It is probably part of the penalty Jim has to pay for his fame. The Ayreses are trying to capitalize on it."

Brown, father of three, was reported in New York Monday and could not be reached for comment.

Collier Had Fear Of Complacency, But Desire Won

By CHUCK HEATON
Cleveland Plain Dealer

CLEVELAND (AP)— Blanton Collier feels that his club is only halfway home with the Eastern Division honors tucked away. He talked about it Monday and reviewed the Browns run for their second straight National Football League championship.

Was the divisional victory more satisfying than last year's triumph?

"That's a difficult question. Last year it was the first one for us together. And it was more dramatic. We felt we had to prove something going into that last game in New York. If we are able to repeat as league champions then I'm sure we'll feel this is the most satisfying."

Was there a key victory this season?

"I hadn't thought about it but the victory in Philadephia might come close to answering that description. We had lost to St. Louis the week before and were behind in the last quarter."

Do you still believe it's tougher to win the second time?

"I suppose there might be some debate now that we've won it but I haven't changed my mind. Things could have been different. Early injuries put Washington out of things. The Redskins now are playing like they were expected to. St. Louis has had a batch of people hurt. And we had some tough, close calls along the way. It wasn't easy."

Was there any one thing you feared going to training camp?

"Yes, complacency among ourselves."

How did you combat it?

"Not by any one thing. We just kept trying to improve. Everyone kept working at their jobs. The players showed they had the true desire to win again."

Did Paul Warfield's injury change the type of offense?

"No, basically. However, we didn't go on with some things we planned to develop. Paul gets double coverage from other teams and that makes a difference. A good running attack has to be the basis of any good team's attack, however."

Do you have any preference as to the title game opposition?

"I haven't thought about it. The thing still seems up for grabs. I'm sure of one thing. Whoever wins in the West will be mighty tough."

Cards Win First Signing Battle With AFL Member

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Professional football's signing war had its first post-draft skirmish today with defensive end Dave Long of Iowa the key figure.

Both the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and the Houston Oilers of the American League claimed to have Long's signature on contracts. Long was drafted in the third round of Saturday's NFL draft by St. Louis and in the sixth round of the AFL draft by Houston.

But the dispute seemed destined to end before it really started. Houston owner Bud Adams, who said he had signed Long Friday night was resigned to letting him go to the Cardinals.

"He signed, as I remember it, Friday evening," Adams said. "We made a mistake by not having him sign again the next day. We sent our man out on other chores when we should have had him stick around and get that second signature."

The Houston owner said every pro team uses the double signing. Clubs don't want to waste a high draft choice on a boy unless they have him nailed, preferably on the dotted line, Adams said.

The loss of Long seemed to make Adams even more determined to snare his No. 1 draft choice, Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis, who could be the Joe Namath in dollars and cents of this year's crop of draftees.

The New York Jets reportedly paid Namath $400,000 last year and Adams said he was ready to go past that figure to get Nobis in an Oiler uniform.

Nobis was the first player tabbed in the NFL draft when the Atlanta Falcons named him. The husky Longhorn linebacker spent Monday touring Atlanta with Falcon owner Rankin Smith and presumably listening to the new franchise's offer.

Meanwhile, the Falcons jumped into the lead in the battle of the bankroll with nine players signed. Smith added three signatures Monday, getting backs Ken Reaves of Norfolk State and Willie Asbury of Kent State, both fourth-round picks, and fullback Bill Johnson of the University of the South, a seventh-round selection.

In the American League, Boston signed four players including its first and second choices, Karl Singer of Purdue and Jim Boudreaux of Louisiana Tech. Both were picked by Cleveland in the NFL. Singer on the 13th round and Boudreaux in the 19th.

The Patriots also signed two other Louisiana Tech players, tackle Dan Irby, picked No. 6, and quarterback Bill Laird, selected in the 15th round.

Baltimore of the NFL signed three players but lost two others to the AFL. The Colts reached terms with North Carolina tackle Dave Ellis, No. 7, Auburn halfback Gerald Gross, No. 9, and Benedict College defensive end Claude Brownlee, No. 10.

But the Colts lost their fourth-round choice, Mississippi State fullback Hoyle Grange to Houston and their 11th selection, Pittsburgh halfback Eric Crabtree to Denver.

San Francisco of the NFL signed Georgia quarterback Preston Ridlehuber, their 11th-round pick. He had been chosen in the AFL's 19th round by New York.

Pair Of Massillon Stars Lead Northeastern Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two members of the rugged defensive unit which led Massillon to the top Class AA state ranking were named today to the All-Northeastern Ohio football squad.

They are defensive end Dave Whitfield, described by the boar of sportswriters who chose the team for The Associated Press as "the best of the Tigers," and linebacker Paul Marks, described as "competitive and tough."

Offensively, Akron Kenmore and Akron St. Vincent each placed two men on the first team. Kenmore's stars are quarterback Keith Gross and end Ron Miller, while St. Vincent placed tackle Larry Vuillemin and guard Rich Weigand.

Running backs are Dave Brungard of Youngstown Chaney, who gained more than 800 yards rushing, Larry Zelina of Cleveland Benedictine, who scored more than 100 points, and Tom Chlebeck of Louisville, who tallied 95 points.

The All-Northeastern Class A team features four players from Lake of Stark County on the first offensive unit. The team finished 9-0 and defeated six Class AA opponents.

Wolfpack Coach Edwards Feted By Atlantic Loop

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Earl Edwards, whose North Carolina State team bounced back at midseason with five straight victories, is Football Coach of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The 30-year veteran of collegiate coaching easily led the voting by 79 members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. It was the third time in his 12 seasons at N.C. State that Edwards won the award.

Edwards, generally a mild-mannered coach, told his squad at midseason he no longer expected the mistakes of the first five games that led to a 1-4 record. The Wolfpack responded with five straight victories and finished with a 6-4 mark.

Thacker Back With Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Thacker will be in uniform tonight for the first time this season as the Cincinnati Royals clash with the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association game.

The Royals announced Monday they have reactivated Tacker and placed Art Heyman on waivers. The club acquired Heyman Oct. 20 in a trade with the San Francisco Warriors.

A 6-foot-2 guard, Thacker is in his third NBA season and came to the Royals from the University of Cincinnati. Heyman, a 6-5 guard, was an All America at Duke. He played in 11 games for the Royals and scored 40 points.

Coach Jack McMahon said he hopes to have Nate Bowman, the Royals' No. 1 draft choice, in action soon. Bowman has been sidelined since he injured his ankle in preseason exhibition.

The Royals are after their fourth straight victory and 12th in the last 14 games in their first meeting of the season tonight against the Lakers.

The Royals also play the Lakers Wednesday and Friday nights in Los Angeles.

Defensive Stars Head Little All-Americans

By HAROLD CLAASEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Formerly, football fanatics glued their uninterrupted gaze on the ball carrier and paid no attention to the defense.

All that has changed in the past decade and if the 1965 Associated Press Little All-America team could be assembled for an All-Star game, two jovial behemoths on defense would be as much of an attraction as any fancy-stepping halfback.

They are Frank Cornish, a 285-pound tackle from Grambling, and Willie Lanier of Morgan State, a junior linebacker who has never played in a losing game as a collegian. Every time Morgan State has lost in the past three years came with Lanier on the bench because of injuries.

For sheer bulk, Cornish is the biggest man on the 22-player offensive-defensive squad picked by The Associated Press in conjunction with football experts throughout the country. His poundage is stretched over a steel-hard frame that towers 6-7 feet.

Lanier is 6-1 and weighs 230 pounds. He is a speedster who has averaged 12 unassisted tackles a game and scored two touchdowns this season, once via a recovered fumble and the other following an interception. Coach Earl Banks says Lanier is the best football player at Morgan State since the days of Roosevelt Brown, a National League standout for more than a decade.

Cornish's presence on the defense platoon and Willie Young's on the offensive forward wall makes Grambling the only college to place two men on the first team.

The first team on offense lists a trio of repeaters from the All-Star team of a year ago in Tom Mitchell of Bucknell at end, Dan Summers of Arkansas State at guard and Randy Schultz of the State College of Iowa at fullback.

Robert Burles of Willamette, a 226-pound tackle, makes his second appearance on the defensive line-up.

Those who moved up from the second team of a year ago were Allen Smith of Findlay, a ball-carrying halfback; Marvin Peterson, Pacific Lutheran's steady center; Tim Chilcutt, defensive genius at Austin Peay State; and Randy Johnson Texas A&I quarterback.

Knicks Coach Out, McGuire Is New Boss

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers are convinced the only way to escape the National Basketball Association depths is at a gallop. As a result Harry (The Horse) Gallatin is out of a job for the second time in 11 months.

The Knicks, mired in the NBAs Eastern Division cellar for the sixth straight season, fired Gallatin — their coach for less than a year — Monday and named Dick McGuire, another former New York ace, to succeed him.

The unexpected coaching change was dictated by the Knicks' inability to win despite their acquisition of scoring stars Walt Bellamy and Dick Barnett in early-season trades and by Gallatin's apparent reluctance to utilize the team's speed in a free-wheeling, fast-break style of play.

McGuire, one of the top playmakers in the game when he and Gallatin were New York teammates in the 1950s, replaced the former NBA ironman 11 months to the day after Gallatin was dismissed as coach of the St. Louis Hawks. Five days after the Hawks fired him Gallatin took the Knicks' job, succeeding Eddie Donovan, who moved up to generarl manager.

McGuire, 39, played eight seasons with the Knicks, was traded to Detroit in 1957 and coached the Pistons from December 1959 through the 1962-63 season. His Detroit clubs reached the NBA playoffs four straight times. Since giving up the Piston's post, McGuire has been a salesman for a New York printing firm.

Tom Rolfe Voted Top 3-Year-Old By Racing Group

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Tom Rolfe, out of the money only once in 13 starts and winner of $444,901, was a landslide winner of the 3-year-old colt championship in balloting by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations Board of Selection.

Raymond Guest's son of Ribot-Pochanontas received 43 of the 52 votes announced today. He was the only sophomore to finish in the money all of the three events comprising the Triple Crown. He ran third in the Kentucky Derby, won the Preakness and lost a neck decision to Hail to All in the Belmont Stakes.

The 19-year-old Ohio State University sophomore was injured seriously Nov. 6 in an auto crash in Columbus and still is a hospital patient.

Debi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Ward of near Mount Vernon, Ohio, was among six 4-H workers receiving $500 scholarships for projects in the Congress' national sheep program.

Collier Had Fear Of Complacency, But Desire Won

By CHUCK HEATON
Cleveland Plain Dealer

CLEVELAND (AP)— Blanton Collier feels that his club is only halfway home with the Eastern Division honors tucked away. He talked about it Monday and reviewed the Browns run for their second straight National Football League championship.

Was the divisional victory more satisfying than last year's triumph?

"That's a difficult question. Last year it was the first one for us together. And it was more dramatic. We felt we had to prove something going into that last game in New York. If we are able to repeat as league champions then I'm sure we'll feel this is the most satisfying."

Was there a key victory this season?

"I hadn't thought about it but the victory in Philadephia might come close to answering that description. We had lost to St. Louis the week before and were behind in the last quarter."

Do you still believe it's tougher to win the second time?

"I suppose there might be some debate now that we've won it but I haven't changed my mind. Things could have been different. Early injuries put Washington out of things. The Redskins now are playing like they were expected to. St. Louis has had a batch of people hurt. And we had some tough, close calls along the way. It wasn't easy."

Was there any one thing you feared going to training camp?

"Yes, complacency among ourselves."

How did you combat it?

"Not by any one thing. We just kept trying to improve. Everyone kept working at their jobs. The players showed they had the true desire to win again."

Did Paul Warfield's injury change the type of offense?

"No, basically. However, we didn't go on with some things we planned to develop. Paul gets double coverage from other teams and that makes a difference. A good running attack has to be the basis of any good team's attack, however."

Do you have any preference as to the title game opposition?

"I haven't thought about it. The thing still seems up for grabs. I'm sure of one thing. Whoever wins in the West will be mighty tough."

Cards Win First Signing Battle With AFL Member

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Professional football's signing war had its first post-draft skirmish today with defensive end Dave Long of Iowa the key figure.

Both the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and the Houston Oilers of the American League claimed to have Long's signature on contracts. Long was drafted in the third round of Saturday's NFL draft by St. Louis and in the sixth round of the AFL draft by Houston.

But the dispute seemed destined to end before it really started. Houston owner Bud Adams, who said he had signed Long Friday night was resigned to letting him go to the Cardinals.

"He signed, as I remember it, Friday evening," Adams said. "We made a mistake by not having him sign again the next day. We sent our man out on other chores when we should have had him stick around and get that second signature."

The Houston owner said every pro team uses the double signing. Clubs don't want to waste a high draft choice on a boy unless they have him nailed, preferably on the dotted line, Adams said.

The loss of Long seemed to make Adams even more determined to snare his No. 1 draft choice, Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis, who could be the Joe Namath in dollars and cents of this year's crop of draftees.

The New York Jets reportedly paid Namath $400,000 last year and Adams said he was ready to go past that figure to get Nobis in an Oiler uniform.

Nobis was the first player tabbed in the NFL draft when the Atlanta Falcons named him. The husky Longhorn linebacker spent Monday touring Atlanta with Falcon owner Rankin Smith and presumably listening to the new franchise's offer.

Meanwhile, the Falcons jumped into the lead in the battle of the bankroll with nine players signed. Smith added three signatures Monday, getting backs Ken Reaves of Norfolk State and Willie Asbury of Kent State, both fourth-round picks, and fullback Bill Johnson of the University of the South, a seventh-round selection.

In the American League, Boston signed four players including its first and second choices, Karl Singer of Purdue and Jim Boudreaux of Louisiana Tech. Both were picked by Cleveland in the NFL. Singer on the 13th round and Boudreaux in the 19th.

The Patriots also signed two other Louisiana Tech players, tackle Dan Irby, picked No. 6, and quarterback Bill Laird, selected in the 15th round.

Baltimore of the NFL signed three players but lost two others to the AFL. The Colts reached terms with North Carolina tackle Dave Ellis, No. 7, Auburn halfback Gerald Gross, No. 9, and Benedict College defensive end Claude Brownlee, No. 10.

But the Colts lost their fourth-round choice, Mississippi State fullback Hoyle Grange to Houston and their 11th selection, Pittsburgh halfback Eric Crabtree to Denver.

San Francisco of the NFL signed Georgia quarterback Preston Ridlehuber, their 11th-round pick. He had been chosen in the AFL's 19th round by New York.

Defensive Stars Head Little All-Americans

By HAROLD CLAASEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Formerly, football fanatics glued their uninterrupted gaze on the ball carrier and paid no attention to the defense.

All that has changed in the past decade and if the 1965 Associated Press Little All-America team could be assembled for an All-Star game, two jovial behemoths on defense would be as much of an attraction as any fancy-stepping halfback.

They are Frank Cornish, a 285-pound tackle from Grambling, and Willie Lanier of Morgan State, a junior linebacker who has never played in a losing game as a collegian. Every time Morgan State has lost in the past three years came with Lanier on the bench because of injuries.

For sheer bulk, Cornish is the biggest man on the 22-player offensive-defensive squad picked by The Associated Press in conjunction with football experts throughout the country. His poundage is stretched over a steel-hard frame that towers 6-7 feet.

Lanier is 6-1 and weighs 230 pounds. He is a speedster who has averaged 12 unassisted tackles a game and scored two touchdowns this season, once via a recovered fumble and the other following an interception. Coach Earl Banks says Lanier is the best football player at Morgan State since the days of Roosevelt Brown, a National League standout for more than a decade.

Cornish's presence on the defense platoon and Willie Young's on the offensive forward wall makes Grambling the only college to place two men on the first team.

The first team on offense lists a trio of repeaters from the All-Star team of a year ago in Tom Mitchell of Bucknell at end, Dan Summers of Arkansas State at guard and Randy Schultz of the State College of Iowa at fullback.

Robert Burles of Willamette, a 226-pound tackle, makes his second appearance on the defensive line-up.

Those who moved up from the second team of a year ago were Allen Smith of Findlay, a ball-carrying halfback; Marvin Peterson, Pacific Lutheran's steady center; Tim Chilcutt, defensive genius at Austin Peay State; and Randy Johnson Texas A&I quarterback.

Knicks Coach Out, McGuire Is New Boss

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers are convinced the only way to escape the National Basketball Association depths is at a gallop. As a result Harry (The Horse) Gallatin is out of a job for the second time in 11 months.

The Knicks, mired in the NBAs Eastern Division cellar for the sixth straight season, fired Gallatin — their coach for less than a year — Monday and named Dick McGuire, another former New York ace, to succeed him.

The unexpected coaching change was dictated by the Knicks' inability to win despite their acquisition of scoring stars Walt Bellamy and Dick Barnett in early-season trades and by Gallatin's apparent reluctance to utilize the team's speed in a free-wheeling, fast-break style of play.

McGuire, one of the top playmakers in the game when he and Gallatin were New York teammates in the 1950s, replaced the former NBA ironman 11 months to the day after Gallatin was dismissed as coach of the St. Louis Hawks. Five days after the Hawks fired him Gallatin took the Knicks' job, succeeding Eddie Donovan, who moved up to generarl manager.

McGuire, 39, played eight seasons with the Knicks, was traded to Detroit in 1957 and coached the Pistons from December 1959 through the 1962-63 season. His Detroit clubs reached the NBA playoffs four straight times. Since giving up the Piston's post, McGuire has been a salesman for a New York printing firm.

Pair Of Massillon Stars Lead Northeastern Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two members of the rugged defensive unit which led Massillon to the top Class AA state ranking were named today to the All-Northeastern Ohio football squad.

A 6-foot-2 guard, Thacker is in his third NBA season and came to the Royals from the University of Cincinnati. Heyman, a 6-5 guard, was an All America at Duke. He played in 11 games for the Royals and scored 40 points.

Coach Jack McMahon said he hopes to have Nate Bowman, the Royals' No. 1 draft choice, in action soon. Bowman has been sidelined since he injured his ankle in preseason exhibition.

The Royals are after their fourth straight victory and 12th in the last 14 games in their first meeting of the season tonight against the Lakers.

The Royals also play the Lakers Wednesday and Friday nights in Los Angeles.

Saxbe Seeks Clearance On Apportioning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe asked the 10th District Court of Appeals today to dissolve a restraining order that has snarled implementation of Ohio's new apportionment plan.

Saxbe's answer to a suit filed by State Senate Democratic Leader Frank W. King of Toledo denies, count by count, contentions that the state apportionment board lacked constitutional authority to devise the plan.

The attorney general was given until today to answer King's suit which halted newspaper advertising of the plan to shape new legislative districts.

Ohio's constitution requires new plans to be advertised one day in four consecutive weeks in newspapers in the state's three largest cities.

One contention of Saxbe's answer, which was complete Monday except for what an aide caled "procedural details," is that a three-judge special federal court which approved the plan Oct. 27 recognized "its presumptive validity."

The panel approved the plan drafted by Saxbe on instructions by the governor, auditor, and secretary of state after the legislature failed to devise one to conform with the U. S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" edict.

Provisions cal for election of a 99-member House and a 33-member Senate with each lawmaker coming from a single district. The last legislature had 137 House members and 32 senators, many representing the same districts because they were elected at-large.

Saxbe's answer denies claims by King that the state apportionment board has constitutional power to reapportion the legislature only once every ten years in the year after the federal census.

Saxbe also refers to allegations in the suit that the meetings of the "board" were held in secret and "under court order." The new House plan was approved Sept. 8 and the Senate plan three weeks later at meetings that were not announced in advance.

Saxbe's presentation is expected to pave the way for arguments and a decision on validity of the plan apportioning officials maintain will be used in the 1966 elections.

Legislative candidates have to file by the first of February.

Man Slays Wife, Shoots 2 Women In Toledo Store

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—"I told you I'd get you!" customers and employes heard shouted in Topps Department Store Monday.

Then shooting—and a 21-year-old woman clerk at a checkout counter fell dead, hit by two bullets.

More shooting wounded two customers—a pregnant young woman and her mother—but not seriously.

An unidentified customer jumped the gun-wielder from behind and pinned his arms. Rothman yanked away the weapon and clipped the menace on the head.

Police moved in an arrested John C. Carolozzi, 22, who they said had been released from Toledo State Hospital only three days earlier after a two-week stay.

It was Carolozzi's wife, Elizabeth, who was slain.

Suffering leg wounds, reportedly when they tried to run, were Mrs. Carol Shade, 40, and her daughter, Mrs. Joanne O'Brien.

Authorities charged Carolozzi with murder—and returned him to Toledo State Hospital.

Saxbe Seeks Clearance On Apportioning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe asked the 10th District Court of Appeals today to dissolve a restraining order that has snarled implementation of Ohio's new apportionment plan.

Saxbe's answer to a suit filed by State Senate Democratic Leader Frank W. King of Toledo denies, count by count, contentions that the state apportionment board lacked constitutional authority to devise the plan.

The attorney general was given until today to answer King's suit which halted newspaper advertising of the plan to shape new legislative districts.

Ohio's constitution requires new plans to be advertised one day in four consecutive weeks in newspapers in the state's three largest cities.

One contention of Saxbe's answer, which was complete Monday except for what an aide caled "procedural details," is that a three-judge special federal court which approved the plan Oct. 27 recognized "its presumptive validity."

The panel approved the plan drafted by Saxbe on instructions by the governor, auditor, and secretary of state after the legislature failed to devise one to conform with the U. S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" edict.

Provisions cal for election of a 99-member House and a 33-member Senate with each lawmaker coming from a single district. The last legislature had 137 House members and 32 senators, many representing the same districts because they were elected at-large.

Saxbe's answer denies claims by King that the state apportionment board has constitutional power to reapportion the legislature only once every ten years in the year after the federal census.

Saxbe also refers to allegations in the suit that the meetings of the "board" were held in secret and "under court order." The new House plan was approved Sept. 8 and the Senate plan three weeks later at meetings that were not announced in advance.

Saxbe's presentation is expected to pave the way for arguments and a decision on validity of the plan apportioning officials maintain will be used in the 1966 elections.

Legislative candidates have to file by the first of February.

Wellsville FOP Names Officers

Bernard L. Ference has been re-elected for a second term as president of Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 11.

Ference is manager of the Ohio State Liquor Store in Wellsville.

Other officers are Nick Paletta, vice president; Aguin Bowling, secretary - treasurer; James Smith, inner guard; Harvey McCauley, outer guard; John Brown, chaplain, and Delmar T. O'Hara and Don Montgomery, trustees.

The new officers will be seated at a banquet in January.

Replastering Work Launched At City Hall

A plastering contractor started work Monday on replastering two stairways at City Hall.

Harold Howard's crew began removing loose plaster from the main stairway facing on Peach ln. yesterday. When the job is completed, work will begin on the other stairway at the rear of the building.

Howard received the $995 contract in late July after Council had included funds for the work in its annual appropriations approved in March, according to Mayor George E. Willshaw.

Court Rules Concern Must Extend Benefits

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge John M. Kelly has ordered Toledo-based Seilon, Inc.—formerly Seiberling Rubber Co. of Barberton—to extend group life insurance benefits for 100 employes pending final disposition Dec. 20.

The order came Monday in a suit filed two weeks ago by three former salaried employes in behalf of the 110 workers. The suit seeks to block the company from canceling a 25-year-old group insurance plan.

Ohio Physician Killed On Pennsylvania Hunt

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — An East Cleveland, Ohio, physician was one of three deer hunters killed Monday on the opening day of Pennsylvania's deer hunting season.

Dr. Saul I. Krasne, 55, with a hunting party in Centre County, was struck in the back of the head by a stray bullet, a funeral director here said.

Man Slays Wife, Shoots 2 Women In Toledo Store

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—"I told you I'd get you!" customers and employes heard shouted in Topps Department Store Monday.

Then shooting—and a 21-year-old woman clerk at a checkout counter fell dead, hit by two bullets.

More shooting wounded two customers—a pregnant young woman and her mother—but not seriously.

Next, the manager of Topps' children's department, Myron Rothman, found himself looking down the barrel of the fatal carbine.

An unidentified customer jumped the gun-wielder from behind and pinned his arms. Rothman yanked away the weapon and clipped the menace on the head.

Police moved in an arrested John C. Carolozzi, 22, who they said had been released from Toledo State Hospital only three days earlier after a two-week stay.

It was Carolozzi's wife, Elizabeth, who was slain.

Suffering leg wounds, reportedly when they tried to run, were Mrs. Carol Shade, 40, and her daughter, Mrs. Joanne O'Brien.

Authorities charged Carolozzi with murder—and returned him to Toledo State Hospital.

Future Projects Are Outlined By Chamber Group

Plans for a general citywide cleanup campaign and cooperation with city and township programs were discussed during a meeting of the Civic Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

The committee met with Mayor George Willshaw and Safety-Service Director Robert Vodrey to discuss cooperation with administration officials on city programs.

Arthur Doak, committee chairman, explained the need for a program to encourage businesses, industries and home owners to improve the appearance of the city.

City cleanup operations require cooperation from its residents, he said, in outlining plans for a year-long education and promotion campaign.

Other areas of cooperation were discussed. A meeting will be held in January to detail plans for the cleanup campaign.

School Group Spent $651 In Levy Appeal

The Citizens Committee for Better Schools reported it spent $651.89 in supporting a 3.5-mill levy to increase the salaries of school personnel which was defeated at the Nov. 2 election.

In its sworn statement filed with the County Election Board, the committee said it had receipts of $1,175.51, including a $449.41 balance from the last campaign.

The balance of $523.62 is "to be retained for the next necessary campaign for a school bond or levy issue," according to the report filed by H. J. English, chairman.

More Snow Cripples Scotland And England

LONDON (AP)—More heavy snow spread over Scotland and England today, piling up in massive drifts and bringing floods to the low sections of the midlands.

Gales in the Irish Sea and the English Channel kept the Liverpool-Dublin ferry in port and stopped flights between London and the Channel Islands.

Police in Yorkshire struggled through 14-foot drifts to get insulin to an 18-year-old diabetic girl stranded for three days in a country inn.

Milk Producers Keep Same Cleveland Price

CLEVELAND (AP) — Although retail prices may fluctuate, a $5.20 price per hundredweight for fluid milk shipped into Cleveland's market will be maintained, according to the Milk Producers Federation.

A premium of approximately 30 cents, negotiated two months ago between the federation and Cleveland dairies, is included in the $5.20 price. The dairies raised prices a penny a quart after the premium was negotiated.

Woman Driver Killed By Crash Near Home

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—A Milton Center woman died and a Bowling Green man was injured Monday night when their cars collided at a country intersection near the woman's home, the Wood County Sheriff's Office said.

Killed was 50-year-old Mrs. Julia Fernendez. Injured and reported in fair condition in Wood County Hospital here was Harold Hull, 73.

Junior Editors Quiz on TOY DOGS

QUESTION: Is it true that toy dogs originated in China?

ANSWER: Most breeds of dogs were developed to help their human masters in various forms of hunting, such as the beagles, hounds, setters, pointers and so on. But, at an early time, men discovered how much pleasure could be derived from breeding and raising dogs purely as pets. Small dogs were more practical to keep inside a house, and so came the cultivation of the toy breeds.

Ancient China had a large part in this development. The most striking of toy dogs, the Pekinese, was bred in the roval Chinese court to typify a regal appearance. The tiny Pekes, some so small as to be carried inside a Chinese sleeve, still bear themselves with pride, being very intelligent and quite aggressive. The Chinese also developed the larger chow-chow and the pug dog, as well as a hairless breed of dog said to have been carried by sailors to Mexico, and now called the Mexican hairless dog (1). China, however, cannot claim all the toy breeds. England developed the toy spaniel; Italy, a miniature greyhound; Germany, several toy breeds. The tiny Chihuahua (2), toy among toys, originated in Mexico.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Many of you may possibly feel that a toy dog is not as much of a dog as a big one. Find someone who has a toy dog and pay a visit. You will find that although the little fellows may weigh less, they are just as protective, affectionate and doglike as the big ones.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: You and your famous nylon net.

Here's another idea:

Cut a big square of nylon net (one could use a piece in a triangle if they want single thickness net), fold it catty-corner, and use it for a head scarf! This is fabulous in the summer, as the net is not hot. It is not absorbant like cotton or silk scarves, so when it rains, the raindrops or mist catch on the net, thus eliminating the problem of drooping hair.

This net scarf may be folded up and put in your purse, and it never seems to wrinkle like the silk or cotton ones.

My daughter cut some squares of net, decorated them with cotton fringe bought at the dime store, and with the sewing machine, made head squares for all of her girl friends for Christmas!

-:-

THESE SCARVES make wonderful items to pile up in your surprise closet for showers, birthday presents, etc. They can be made in any delicate color, or white (especially pretty for brides).

The nylon net costs less than 15 cents for one scarf, as two-thirds of a yard will make three 24-inch squares, and I think every woman will love them.

NETTIE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a bowl of dried fruit in the refrigerator. The children can help themselves to this rather than candy or other sweets.

MARY CASTRO.

DEAR HELOISE: Many times, when I've been a house guest, I've left an article or two in the home I visited.

Naturally, this was an inconvenience to my hostess, as she had to take the time to package and mail the forgotten item to me.

Now, as I pack my bag, I list each item on a sheet of paper which I tape inside the lid of my suitcase.

JUNE AMES.

-:-

That's a great idea! It would also apply when visiting hotels or motels.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My sewing machine cabinet looks like a Civil War relic, but the machine itself has a lot of miles left in it!

I made a slipcover for it, and hung a mirror behind it. Presto— a very attractive second dressing table in the bedroom.

JANE C.

DEAR HELOISE: We keep our card table in the hall closet, and it was always flopping over or sliding to the floor.

My husband bought a curtain rod, and fastened it diagonally to the closet wall.

We just slip one corner of the card table up under the curtain rod, push the table back against the wall, and there it stays until we want to use it.

MRS. R. C.

DEAR HELOISE: I enjoy reading your column, so it's about time I contributed something.

When friends ask the name of my exotic-looking house plants, it's fun to explain that they are avocado trees raised from seeds.

Whenever I splurge on an avocado pear, I save the large, stone-type seed, and plant it in at least an eight-inch pot of soil mixed with peat moss or leaf mold.

The only trick is to keep it very moist. Covering the pot with a sheet of plastic wrap promotes a greenhouse atmosphere.

PALE GREEN THUMB.

That's right up my alley! I grow them, too.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To prevent the kitchen chair legs from scratching the vinyl floor, I cut out small circles of colored felt, and secured them to the bottom of each chair leg with rubber bands.

BAMMA JOHNSON.

Further Training Due 3 Area Air Force Men

Further training is scheduled for three district men who recently completed basic training at the Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Tex.

They are: Airman Daniel M. D'Angelo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jule D'Angelo of 134 7th St., Midland, who will train as a communications-electronics specialist at Keesler Field in Mississippi; Airman Robert M. Sopko, son of Mrs. Ethel Sopko of 1208 Ohio Ave., Midland, who will train as an aircraft maintenance specialist at Sheppard Field in Texas, and Airman James P. McGeehan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McGeehan of 1125 Ohio Ave., Midland, who will train as an intelligence specialist at Lowry Field in Colorado.

McGeehan and Sopko are 1964 graduates of Midland High School, where D'Angelo received his diploma in 1963.

Social Security Office Sets Extended Schedule Of Hours

The district Social Security on Dresden Ave. will remain open Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings through Dec. 18, for the added convenience of area residents of the area, Walter I. Kimbro, manager, said today. The time is in addition to the regular 8:15 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. schedule Monday through Friday.

Kimbro pointed out that it is important for many people to get in touch with the office to take advantage of the health insurance and other provisions of the 1965 amendments to the Social Security program. Although most people are able to visit the office during the day, many find it impossible to do so because of employment or home responsibilities, he said.

The three major groups of people who should get in touch with the Social Security office are the following, Kimbro said:

1. People who are now 65 or older but who are not entitled to Social Security benefits. Some of these people are eligible for benefits but have not applied for them because they are still working full time.

Kimbro emphasized that it is desirable for these people to apply now to establish their Social Security benefit rights and to qualify for the hospital insurance protection that begins in July 1966.

He emphasized that no one can lose by applying for benefits as soon as he reaches 65 (those who retire between 62 and 65 may receive cash benefits but in a permanently reduced amount. They are not eligible for hospital insurance until they reach 65).

Many of the people 72 or older are not now getting benefits because they (or their husband) had not worked enough under Social Security to qualify. Many of these people will now be eligible for cash benefits because the new law reduces the amount of work required for most people 72 or older.

2. Widows 60 or 61 who under the old law would have been eligible for widows benefits at age 62. They may now apply for Social Security Benefits as early as age 60 if they wish to accept a permanently reduced amount.

3. Unmarried students 18 to 22 whose Social Security benefits have been stopped and students who receive Social Security benefits and are nearing age 18, and who plan to continue in school. Upon application, monthly benefits can be paid back to January 1965 to unmarried students who were under 22 in January 1965 and who were dropped from the Social Security rolls when they reached 18.

The office telepnone number is 385-9223.

Texan, 85, Dies In Cave, Leaves $60,000 Estate

WHEELER, Tex. (AP) — Noble Chancey Myers, who lived in a cave much of his 85 years, died on a bed of burlap bags Monday, but he owned the bed and the 320 acres around it.

Myers, who said he had worked in Paris, watched bullfights in Spain and punched cattle on the pampas of the Argentine, returned to the cave on his half section of land 12 miles north of this Panhandle town for at least a few months each year.

In another cave, friends found a metal box containing the title to Myers' land, a bank book from a Wheeler bank showing a balance of $20,000, a will and other papers. Sheriff Bus Dorman estimated value of the land at $40,000.

Myers' only living relative, Daisy Fuller of Oklahoma City, said her brother left home when he was 14 and took a job as a bronc rider for a Texas ranch.

City Architect Attends White House Session

James N. Porter, local architect and professor of architecture and urban design at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, is attending the urban development panel session of the White House Conference on International Cooperation Tuesday in Washington.

It is preliminary to a world seminar on urban development sponsored by the United Nations which tentatively is scheduled for next fall in Pittsburgh. The seminar's purpose is to help underdeveloped countries with their urban problems.

Ashtabula Seeks Research Center

ASHTABULA — Eber Wright, director of the Ashtabula County Planning Commission, said Sunday the county will make a bid for one of five research centers proposed by the Ohio Board of Regents.

Wright said a proposal for a center to develop new industrial products will be sent this week to the regents and to Gov. James Rhodes. Wright said he will ask for the center to be built south of here near Interstate Route 90 and the new Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway.

A 200-acre site could be purchased which would have a strategic location because of accessibility to industries at Erie, Youngstown and Cleveland.

Groundbreaking Set For Chrysler Facility

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Chrysler Corp. will break ground Dec. 7 for its new parts plant to be located in Perry Township, Wood County, the corporation announced today.

The firm announced several weeks ago it had selected the 437-acre Ohio site for a new plant to replace its current Holland, Mich., operations.

It said it expects to phase out the Holland operations over a five-year period with the new plant to employ about 3,500 by 1972. The facility will supply major components for passenger cars and trucks assembled at plants throughout the country.

1966 Buick. The tuned car. At your 1966 Buick dealers today.

What makes a car is styling, performance, handling and ride. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. You know how well a car's engine runs after a tune-up? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Every Buick. This is the Skylark Gran Sport. Like every Buick this year, it comes equipped with a lot of safety features that used to be considered extras: Back-up lights; 2-speed electric wipers; windshield washers; padded dash; padded sun visors; shatter-resistant rearview mirror; outside mirror; and front and rear seat belts (which, because we like Buick owners to come back for more Buicks, we sure wish you'd buckle.)

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his ✓ Double-Checked used cars, too.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: You and your famous nylon net.

Here's another idea:

Cut a big square of nylon net (one could use a piece in a triangle if they want single thickness net), fold it catty-corner, and use it for a head scarf! This is fabulous in the summer, as the net is not hot. It is not absorbant like cotton or silk scarves, so when it rains, the raindrops or mist catch on the net, thus eliminating the problem of drooping hair.

This net scarf may be folded up and put in your purse, and it never seems to wrinkle like the silk or cotton ones.

My daughter cut some squares of net, decorated them with cotton fringe bought at the dime store, and with the sewing machine, made head squares for all of her girl friends for Christmas!

THESE SCARVES make wonderful items to pile up in your surprise closet for showers, birthday presents, etc. They can be made in any delicate color, or white (especially pretty for brides).

The nylon net costs less than 15 cents for one scarf, as two-thirds of a yard will make three 24-inch squares, and I think every woman will love them.

NETTIE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a bowl of dried fruit in the refrigerator. The children can help themselves to this rather than candy or other sweets.

MARY CASTRO.

DEAR HELOISE: Many times, when I've been a house guest, I've left an article or two in the home I visited.

Naturally, this was an inconvenience to my hostess, as she had to take the time to package and mail the forgotten item to me.

Now, as I pack my bag, I list each item on a sheet of paper which I tape inside the lid of my suitcase.

JUNE AMES.

-:-

That's a great idea! It would also apply when visiting hotels or motels.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My sewing machine cabinet looks like a Civil War relic, but the machine itself has a lot of miles left in it!

I made a slipcover for it, and hung a mirror behind it. Presto— a very attractive second dressing table in the bedroom.

JANE C.

DEAR HELOISE: We keep our card table in the hall closet, and it was always flopping over or sliding to the floor.

My husband bought a curtain rod, and fastened it diagonally to the closet wall.

We just slip one corner of the card table up under the curtain rod, push the table back against the wall, and there it stays until we want to use it.

MRS. R. C.

DEAR HELOISE: I enjoy reading your column, so it's about time I contributed something.

When friends ask the name of my exotic-looking house plants, it's fun to explain that they are avocado trees raised from seeds.

Whenever I splurge on an avocado pear, I save the large, stone-type seed, and plant it in at least an eight-inch pot of soil mixed with peat moss or leaf mold.

The only trick is to keep it very moist. Covering the pot with a sheet of plastic wrap promotes a greenhouse atmosphere.

PALE GREEN THUMB.

That's right up my alley! I grow them, too.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To prevent the kitchen chair legs from scratching the vinyl floor, I cut out small circles of colored felt, and secured them to the bottom of each chair leg with rubber bands.

BAMMA JOHNSON.

Social Security Office Sets Extended Schedule Of Hours

The district Social Security on Dresden Ave. will remain open Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings through Dec. 18, for the added convenience of area residents of the area, Walter I. Kimbro, manager, said today. The time is in addition to the regular 8:15 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. schedule Monday through Friday.

Kimbro pointed out that it is important for many people to get in touch with the office to take advantage of the health insurance and other provisions of the 1965 amendments to the Social Security program. Although most people are able to visit the office during the day, many find it impossible to do so because of employment or home responsibilities, he said.

The three major groups of people who should get in touch with the Social Security office are the following, Kimbro said:

1. People who are now 65 or older but who are not entitled to Social Security benefits. Some of these people are eligible for benefits but have not applied for them because they are still working full time.

Kimbro emphasized that it is desirable for these people to apply now to establish their Social Security benefit rights and to qualify for the hospital insurance protection that begins in July 1966.

He emphasized that no one can lose by applying for benefits as soon as he reaches 65 (those who retire between 62 and 65 may receive cash benefits but in a permanently reduced amount. They are not eligible for hospital insurance until they reach 65).

Many of the people 72 or older are not now getting benefits because they (or their husband) had not worked enough under Social Security to qualify. Many of these people will now be eligible for cash benefits because the new law reduces the amount of work required for most people 72 or older.

2. Widows 60 or 61 who under the old law would have been eligible for widows benefits at age 62. They may now apply for Social Security Benefits as early as age 60 if they wish to accept a permanently reduced amount.

3. Unmarried students 18 to 22 whose Social Security benefits have been stopped and students who receive Social Security benefits and are nearing age 18, and who plan to continue in school. Upon application, monthly benefits can be paid back to January 1965 to unmarried students who were under 22 in January 1965 and who were dropped from the Social Security rolls when they reached 18.

The office telepnone number is 385-9223.

Texan, 85, Dies In Cave, Leaves $60,000 Estate

WHEELER, Tex. (AP) — Noble Chancey Myers, who lived in a cave much of his 85 years, died on a bed of burlap bags Monday, but he owned the bed and the 320 acres around it.

Myers, who said he had worked in Paris, watched bullfights in Spain and punched cattle on the pampas of the Argentine, returned to the cave on his half section of land 12 miles north of this Panhandle town for at least a few months each year.

In another cave, friends found a metal box containing the title to Myers' land, a bank book from a Wheeler bank showing a balance of $20,000, a will and other papers. Sheriff Bus Dorman estimated value of the land at $40,000.

Myers' only living relative, Daisy Fuller of Oklahoma City, said her brother left home when he was 14 and took a job as a bronc rider for a Texas ranch.
